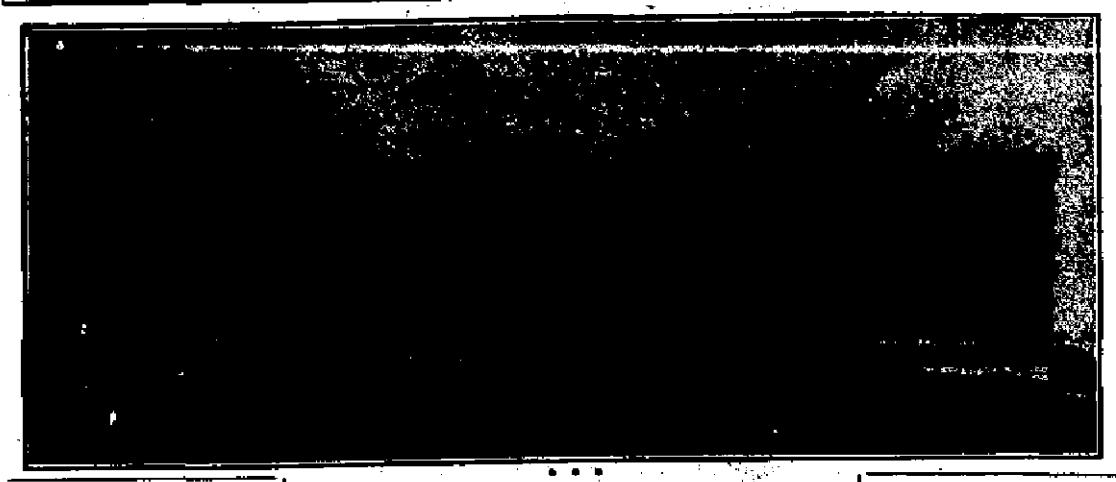
BOARD NAMES NEW SCHOOL FOR INVENTOR



LAVAL'S SHIP HELD BACK AS JOSEE DANCES

Jimmy Walker Entertains Two Noted Guests While Liner Waits.

OVER FIVE HOURS LATE

Now Enroute Home with Premier, Pleased with Hoover Conference.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—A queen of the sea waited five and a half hours today while the daughter of the premier of France danced with a Yankee mayor.

The Ile de France was to have sailed at five minutes past midnight with Premier Laval and his daughter, Josee, aboard. A' that hour, however, the orchestra in the fashionable night club was playing "Cupid on the Birthday Cake" and Madamoiselle Josee Laval was dancing with Mayor James J. Walker. Monsieur Laval was watching with an expansive smile, and a group of socially important persons who were gathered to honor the natal day of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney beamed their approval.

The boat waited.

Finally, at 1:15 a. m., when Mayor Walker's car rolled up with Josee, the premier close behind, the captain decided to postpone sailing until 5:30 a. m.

Mayor Extends Best Wishes

The mayor went aboard to wish the premier bon voyage.

Photographers posed the group. Madamoiselle Laval declared her last five hours in New York were the happiest.

The premier said goodbye. The mayor said goodbye. The five-day visit was ended.

The premier departed feeling France and the United States—since his conversations with President Hoover—understand each other better and know what to expect. His last day was filled with reception and sightseeing and a dinner by the French chamber of commerce.

"We drafted no protocol," the premier told the dinner guests in reference to his conference with the President. "We were animated by the mutual desire to examine thoroughly in the course of a free and frank discussion, the various problems which the various crisis raised.

"Our effort has not been in vain. Our countries are far apart, separated by a vast ocean. Our democracies have not the same constitutional basis. Our political traditions, often differing, suffice to explain certain misunderstandings which from time to time have grown up between us. Henceforth we know where we stand, we know what we want, we know what we can expect and what may be expected of us.

Sees Closer Cooperation

"Cooperation between our two countries will thus become closer, since our governments will have a clearer understanding of their respective interests and their common duties. Thus, even if the conversations in Washington had had no other results, they would have fulfilled great hopes. This is the moral benefit of our meeting."

He spoke in French and his remarks were translated.

Under Secretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., delivered the official farewell on behalf of the government of the United States.

ANNUAL NAVY DAY OBSERVED

Prospects of Reduced Budget Fail To Dim Celebration of Anniversary.

HOOVER OUTLINES VIEWS

"Ours Is Force of Defense, Not Offense," He Tells Nation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—The glories of the past and the hopes of the future were entwined today in the navy's observance of its one hundred and fifty-sixth birthday.

In a world-wide movement, the limitation of its strength through a holiday on construction is under consideration. A slice of $60,000,000 from its next budget is before the administration.

But, on the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, an ardent exponent of its upbuilding, the navy paused for its annual ceremony. Seafaring routine slipped from the decks of many ships and the service kept open house for the nation.

At Lakehurst, modernity was symbolized in the dedication of a new queen of the air—the giant airship Akron.

Program Tonight

From the rejuvenated decks of Old Ironsides, Secretary Adams will recall tonight the magnificent traditions of America's men of the sea. With Governor Ritchie of Maryland and Rear Admiral William S. Benson, retired, he will have dinner aboard the ship, which itself may become a part of the navy's curtailment program.

In seeking, at the request of President Hoover, to decrease its 1932 budget, navy officials recommended the inactivity of Old Ironsides. The president has, however, indicated disagreement with the idea.

On the eve of the navy's celebration, Mr. Hoover described "the first necessity" of the country as the maintenance of a navy so strong and so efficient that no enemy could have attempted invasion.

At the same time, though, he said, "ours is a force of defense, not offense." He added that the armed forces must be reduced to the lowest point consonant with security.

Almost as he sent his birthday note to Secretary Adams, it became known that the United States would reply favorably this week to the League of Nations request for participation in a one-year disarmament holiday. The proposed holiday, in which 57 nations have been invited to join, has Mr. Hoover's full support.

LEGION WILL HOLD NAVY DAY SERVICE

Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr. will be the principal speaker on the Navy day program of the American Legion tonight at the dugout on south High street. Thomas O. Showers, naval recruiting officer here, is in charge of the program. Mr. Showery will give a short talk.

Merchants displayed flags today. Although no observance is required in the public schools, some recognition was given the day in assemblies and class rooms in the junior and high school buildings.

The Legion program will begin at 8 p. m. and is open to the public.

COURT RULING TODAY ON CAPONE REQUEST

Gangster, Convicted of Fraud, Faces Possible Long Stay in Chicago Jail.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—Al Capone has settled down for what may be a long stay in the county jail and apparently much more content to remain there than to leave for a federal penitentiary.

A ruling on the scarfaced gang chief's request to be free on bond while his income tax conviction is appealed to the higher courts is due late today from the court of appeals. The court may either order him freed, sent to Leavenworth, or held in his present quarters.

United States marshals were to take Capone to Leavenworth but they have been ready twice before, only to have their plans frustrated by court orders to hold him in Chicago.

JUDGE PAYS FINE LEVIED ON PASTOR

Voices Regret at Punishing "Flogging Preacher."

MENA, Ark., Oct. 27—Polk county's flogging preacher, Rev. Bud Wise, pleaded guilty to assault and was fined $1 in circuit court here, but Judge A. P. Steel paid the dollar for him.

Regret was expressed by the jurist that it was necessary to fine him. "As a good deal of the disgrace of this affair rests on the shoulders of the officials who permitted the publicity seeking to stay out of jail, I am glad to pay the penalty and relieve them of it," Judge Steel said.

STORMS FORECAST FOR GREAT LAKES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27—The United States weather bureau today predicted strong winds, probably reaching gale proportions on all of the great lakes during the next 24 hours.

For Lake Erie the weather bureau predicted increasing winds and increasing cloudiness, probably with rain tonight. Wednesday will probably be fair.

DEDICATE BUILDING IN OAKLAND HEIGHTS

Thomas A. Edison Junior High School Chosen by Board as Fitting Name.

Marion's new $320,000 junior high school in Oakland Heights was dedicated and named the Thomas A. Edison junior high school in a dedicatory program in the building last night. The program also dedicated the Indiana avenue elementary building and enlargements and additions in four other elementary buildings included in the $750,000 building program begun three years ago.

The name, "Thomas A. Edison Junior high school" was chosen by the board of education last week from a list of several dozen considered. This name was considered a most fitting one, particularly appropriate in its selection at a time when the nation is honoring Edison's memory. In all probability, the school will be commonly referred to as the Edison Junior high, school officials said.

Many Turned Away

Several thousand persons were turned away from the auditorium of the new building, where the program was given. It was estimated that more than 7,000 persons visited the building between 7 and 10 p. m. while it was open for inspection.

Pleading that school executives, teachers and the entire community be forever imbued with "divine discontent" to an extent that they always will try to better the educational program rather than bask in contentment over their past achievements, Dr. B. O. Skinner, state director of education, brought to the new junior high school a plea for common sense in education.

Tuesday, in the physical education program of the schools, Dr. Skinner cited the need for practical physical education work that reached all the students and made for better health in preference to programs of athletic contests among schools. Athletic contests in which the players learn the value of teamwork are fine, and are to be encouraged, but a more extensive program is needed, he said.

LOSES LEG IN BEAN HULLER

Farmer Injured in Accident on Farm on Campbell Road at 10:30 A. M.

Charles Furnis, Marion county farmer suffered injuries in an accident this morning which resulted in the amputation of his left leg at City hospital at noon today.

Furnis and his two sons were hulling beans in a field near the home. Furnis' leg was drawn in the pulleys of the bean huller and was mangled. The sons stopped the machine, extricated their father and carried him into the home, from where he was removed to City hospital in the Schaffner-Queen ambulance.

He was conscious until he arrived at the hospital. The leg was amputated between the knee and the thigh. Furnis is farming on the George Uhler farm on the Campbell road. The accident occurred about 10:30 a. m.

CREW TAKEN OFF AS FREIGHT BOAT SINKS

Craft Goes Down in New York Harbor in Collision with Scow.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—The 140-foot sound freighter City of Stamford collided with a scow off Welfare island this morning and sank in the East river. The crew of 15 men were taken off the sinking freighter by river craft. There were no passengers.

The freighter was sunk off 92nd street.

The City of Stamford is a wooden freight steamboat 620 tons gross register and was built in 1907.

GRAPE HARVEST RUSHED

By The Associated Press

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 27—School children at Kelly island have been given a week's respite from the class room to permit them to help their parents in their grape harvest to fill a rush order. A small fleet of boats is transporting the harvest to the mainland

MILAN UNDER ATTACK

MILAN, O., Oct. 27—Milan, birth place of Thomas A. Edison, faces an unusual situation. Since the great inventor's death, hundreds of souvenir hunters have invaded the village, tearing bark from trees about the little house where he was born and picking up all sorts of notable objects.

FORMER LOCAL MAN KILLED

E. E. Northrup, 53, Shot by Companion at Lima After Drinking Party.

HAS RELATIVES HERE

"Jeff" Harter Pleads Not Guilty to First Degree Murder Charge.

Charles "Jeff" Harter, 50, of Lima, who is said to have confessed killing E. E. Northrup, 53, also of Lima and a native of Marion county, pleaded not guilty to a charge of first degree murder when arraigned yesterday in criminal court in Lima, an Associated Press dispatch said today.

Northrup was born in Centerville, in Prospect township, Aug. 24 1878. He lived there doing odd jobs as a laborer until about 12 years ago when he moved to Lima. According to relatives here, he followed the same kind of work in Lima.

Police Get Confession

Harter made a confession Sunday night of the fatal shooting, Lima police said. The shooting occurred in the Northrup home sometime late Friday night, Harter told police. Harter claimed that Northrup had stolen $18 from him Friday night while the two men slept in the Northrup home. Police are now searching for the money said to have been stolen.

A post mortem, conducted by the coroner and officials of Allen county, revealed that Northrup had been shot twice with a .32 caliber revolver. One bullet had lodged in the abdomen, entering through the back and penetrating both walls of the stomach and the other entered the left temple and lodged over the right eye.

In his written confession to police, Harter said that he had been watching for seven years to "catch Northrup stealing from him." He answered in the affirmative a question by Prosecutor Botkin if he had made up his mind to shoot Northrup if he caught him stealing from him.

Spend Evening Together

Harter said that he went to Northrup's home Friday night and that Northrup asked him to come in. The two men, Harter said, drank bay rum for a short time, each having two bottles. Then Northrup asked him to spend the night there. After sleeping for about two hours, Harter said, he awakened and found Northrup

Judge Allows Kidnaper Stay To Aid Science

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 27—A judge's interest in science enabled a confessed kidnaper to seek perfection of an invention today instead of beginning a 25-year prison term.

As a result, A. A. Robbins, admitted participant in a plot carried out a month ago, was in the county jail toiling over charts of what he said was a chemical process which would "revolutionize the manufacture of paper and paint."

He received an indefinite stay of commitment yesterday after telling Judge Gustavus Loevinger he feared prison routine would interfere with continued development.

Robbins said his formula provides use of a farm by-product of little value now, but declined to reveal its exact nature.

VAN ATTAS SELL CROSLEYS HERE

Cincinnati Concern Pioneers in Radio Development; Prices Moderate.

When the first Crosley radio receivers were made, more than 10 years ago radio receivers had been hand made laboratory built instruments and were highly expensive pieces of apparatus for use in the home

The first Crosley accomplishment which attracted nation wide attention was the development of a vacuum tube socket to retail at 60 cents at a time when other such sockets retailed at from $1 25 to $2 50

Next came under the Crosley name the first complete crystal detector receiving set, known as the Harko Junior, selling for only $15 at a time when all similar radio receiving sets were sold at prices from $25 up

Crosley was again first to offer a single vacuum tube radio receiving set, known as the Harko Senior, to sell under $35 The price was only $18 00

Following that came a two-tube Crosley, known as Model 51, selling for only $18 50

Another "first" in Crosley history was Ace V the first regenerative radio receiving set to sell for less than $35 Its price was only $20

Then came the first tuned radio frequency receiving set It incorporated two tubes, one stage of tuned radio frequency and a detector, known as Crosley Model VI, and selling for only $28.

Closely following Model VI came the first four tube tuned radio frequency radio receiver—the first radio receiving set ever to incorporate more than three tubes and to be completely housed in one cabinet. This set, known as the Crosley Model X, sold at only $65 and incorporated one stage of tuned radio frequency amplification, one detector stage, and two stages of audio amplification.

Following this development came the Crosley Musicone which was the first truly successful cone speaker supplanting, as it did, the old cumbersome horn speaker

The next outstanding Crosley development, and the first of its kind in the radio industry, was a radio receiving set incorporating electrolytic condensers now found in almost every electrically operated radio receiving set

Crosley does not claim the distinction of having been first in every outstanding radio development but Crosley does claim the distinction of having been the outstanding leader in radio development at prices which the average individual could afford during the past 10 years In other words Crosley has made it possible for the average person to have in his home a radio receiving set of outstanding quality and performance at a price within his means Crosley has always been an outstanding pioneer in the development of radio receiving sets, incorporating the most modern features at lowest possible popular prices.

HAVE SUPERLATIVE TONE WITH ARTISTS' AID

Much of the beautiful tone of these new series 124 Crosley push-pull pentode exponential or variable mu Superheterodyne models can be attributed to the suggestion and help of such noted artists as Alma Gluck Edith Mason, Efram Z bbatist, Jose Mojica, George Gershwin and others equally famous, who were engaged to 'listen in" comment, advise, and give Crosley engineers the invaluable benefit of their opinions. As a result, the tone quality of Crosley radio has been developed and constantly improved to a richness, brilliance and naturalness that mechanical tests alone could never attain And this beautiful tone is exclusive with Crosley

Looking at Television

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Since New York's radio show television in the east has been more or less marking time

The reason for this can be explained in several ways, one of which has to do with the fact that the several laboratories which had announced they would soon be ready with screen televisors have found that it has taken more time than at first thought to get ready for the market.

Another factor seems to be the decision of the radio industry as a whole that it should continue to concentrate on sound broadcast sets, at least for the present season. What next year will bring no one can publicly foretell yet.

Experiments Go On

Meanwhile experimental picture broadcasting is being carried along on about the same schedule as the past several months with the transmitters on the Atlantic seaboard sticking to the policy of sending out images of 60 lines, 20 pictures per second

Occasionally is heard some discussion about the possibility of shifting ultimately to the ultra short waves for the handling of television but outside of several experiments not much progress along that line has been reported

However even if there is a decision to so shift, it is the plan of most experimenters to continue the transmissions on the 100 and 150 meter channels for some time to come, running short and ultra short wave pictures simultaneously

Just how fast television will take hold in public interest has been one thing that has caused considerable worry on the part of its enthusiastic backers.

Many of them feel that it will step along at a faster pace than did sound broadcasting while others think that due to the problems that no doubt will spring up after its formal introduction it will feel its way more carefully

First Television Year

There seems to be a general feeling with the radio industry that too much attention should not be paid to experimental television This is based on the tenet that the laboratories need just a little more time to further their own work

While this has been really the first television year and no doubt will be so looked upon by radio historians, the consensus appears to be that avid concentration on television manufacture will not come until the turn of the year, if then

MUSICIANS TAKE LESSONS BY RADIO

By The Associated Press

DETROIT—People who don't like to be seen carrying musical instruments are learning to play by radio in their own homes.

Following inquiry by a Michigan school superintendent as to the possibility of using radio to direct bands and orchestras a course of radio instruction was offered.

The Michigan department of public instruction and the University of Michigan cooperated.

Free lesson booklets were distributed to adults and children in radio-equipped schools. The booklets gave written instructions to be followed during the broadcasts.

Huge Radio Set Requires Hotel for Its Cabinet

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — How would you like to run a radio receiver so massive that it requires the space of a large hotel as a cabinet

Eli M Lourie, young engineer does and gets a tremendous kick out of his job So enthusiastic does he become sometimes that he forgets to sleep, particularly when he gets lost in some problem

This particular radio receiver really is in two sections one close to the roof of the Hotel New Yorker and the other on a lower floor The roof apparatus is the radio receiving equipment while the other is the heart of a public address system.

Wires lead from the two radio rooms to loudspeakers in sleeping rooms, ball rooms, reception rooms and about every place in the building at which it is desired to pipe music, coming over the air or originating in the hotel itself

The main receiver looks more like a broadcast transmitter than a radio set.

In addition to four tuning units it contains several racks of amplifiers using 250 tubes in pushpull parallel so designed that the addition or subtraction of half of the speakers in the building would have no effect on the volume level

The intricate wiring provides that microphones may be cut in at various points in the hotel as well as the radio room itself so that entertainment or speeches may be carried from many points in the building

The master receiver—really four of them—will handle four radio programs at once a switch being provided at each speaker for selection

Besides running these twin outfits, Young Lourie often is seen hurrying through the hotel with a so-called magic box. It contains a dial and a series of buttons in addition to a cable attached to a plug with a half dozen or more prongs

He goes to the ball room and hurries over to a wall receptacle. He makes a hasty connection and starts operating the controls on the box. Suddenly music from a radio station fills the room. His box is a remote control device that operates a separate receiver installed in a desk in the roof radio room

Two N. C. O. League Engagements on Saturday Schedule

HARDING ENTERTAINS TYGER COMBINE ON FAIRGROUND FIELD

Ashland Host to Galion; Bucyrus and Shelby Have Week's Vacation.

Only two engagements occupy the attention of North Central Ohio league football fans this week. Two of the circuit entries will enjoy a holiday and the remaining four will take part in a pair of league battles, both to be played on Saturday afternoon. Bucyrus and Shelby will not play. Mansfield and Harding will clash on the Presidents' home field and Galion will visit the home of "Rosie" Siarn's Ashland Hilltoppers.

As far as importance to the league standings is concerned there is little difference in the games this week. Neither Galion nor Harding have a chance to finish at the top of the heap but Ashland and Mansfield are both in a position to cop the league title. Harding and Galion will be trying exceptionally hard to upset the leaders in order to make up for what otherwise looms as a dismal season for both elevens.

On paper neither Ashland nor Mansfield should encounter more than average opposition in meeting Galion and Harding. On the field it may be different, particularly in the case of Mansfield.

Harding is the only N. C. O team in two years which has been able to check the onrushing Mansfield eleven, despite the fact the former has been for two years a tail-end organization and the latter the league champions for the same length of time. Harding has gained two ties in the last two years and last year Mansfield was extremely lucky to eke out a 6-6 deadlock with the Bohyer-coached aggregation. The Presidents will find the going tougher against Mansfield this year than in the previous two for the Tyger combine is a veteran organization, thoroughly schooled in the game and possesed of a lightning fast offense.

Ashland, surprised last Saturday by a fighting Shelby team, will face Galion knowing that to lose will mean elimination from the race for the title. Galion, however, hardly figures to take the Starmen into camp.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

ACCORDING to a dispatch by the Associated Press yesterday, officials of Wittenberg college and Ohio Wesleyan university admit there is a possibility that the football teams of these two institutions may be scheduled in a post season charity football game. No time nor place is mentioned by the dispatch

Such an announcement should bring joy to the followers of Buckeye Association football. Before Wittenberg's withdrawal from the B. A. A. a few years ago for alleged recruiting of athletes, the annual grid clash of these two schools was the classic of Ohio football. There was no more bitter rivalry between any two schools in the state. The winner was generally recognized as just about the peer of Ohio football.

* * *

Since Ohio University came to the fore in Ohio football the winner of an Ohio Wesleyan-Wittenberg battle could by no means be recognized as the winner of a state championship. But that makes no difference. What counts is that a renewal of athletic relations between the Bishops and Lutherans would serve the double purpose of providing a choice morsel for gridiron fans and at the same time aid a horde of needy persons in Ohio. For one, I hope the game is arranged and if it is one of the first orders for tickets will be forwarded from this office.

* * *

A check of games played to date in the N. C. O. league reveals that a team expected to finish last is in a tie for first place with half of the season completed. Shelby, having played two games and won them both is tied with Mansfield for the top with a perfect record Mansfield also has a 1000 per cent mark but has only played one league game Harding, sad to relate, is tied for the cellar post with Galion, both teams having played two league games and lost the same number.

* * *

Despite the fact he has not crossed a goal line in two weeks, Gene Brandon of Mansfield continues to lead the scorers of the league with 18 points. Brandon scored 18 the day Mansfield routed Galion 27-0 but has been scoreless since. Morgan and Lindsey are the only two Marion boys whose names appear in the scoring column. Both have tallied a single six-pointer. Below are given the standings of the league and the standing of the players in the scoring column.

BLUE RIBBON DOGS IN ANIMAL TRIALS

By International News Service

BATAVIA, O, Oct. 27—The best fox hound blood in a dozen states was represented here today as the four-day field trials of the Kentucky-Indiana-Ohio Fox Hunters' association swung into action The first race was to be held on the Cover farm near here.

Forty dogs were entered in the first trials. From this number a pack of a dozen hounds will be chosen for the trials in the derby class, to be held tomorrow north of Bantam, O All-age hounds will participate on Thursday and Friday, with the winners to be announced in the last day's racing.

The Thursday race will be run two miles south of here, with more than a 100 dogs in the running "Jobe," owned by Pat Harmon of Georgetown, Ky., winner of the derby last year, is entered in the all age class

BIG 10 TEAMS HOPE TO EVEN FORTUNES IN EAST SATURDAY

Mid-West Elevens Trailing in Intersectional Competition This Season.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO Oct. 27—The Western conference will be looking to Michigan and Iowa Saturday to pull it up even with the rest of the country in intersectional football

In 11 intersectional contests this season, Big Ten teams have lost six decisions, have won three and tied one Iowa which has suffered two of the five defeats, appears about ready to win a game this week, with George Washington University of Washington, D. C., as its opponent, while Michigan, which seems to have recovered from its disappointing start, will be favored over Princeton's Tigers.

Iowa has been beaten by Pittsburgh and Texas A. & M., Ohio dropped a hair-raiser to Vanderbilt, Yale crushed Chicago, Stanford downed Minnesota and Pennsylvania upset calculations by trouncing Wisconsin last week. Wisconsin previously had played a 7-7 draw with Alabama Poly.

Mid-West Victories

On the other side of the ledger, Minnesota defeated Oklahoma Aggies, Northwestern walloped the University of California's southern branch eleven, and Nebraska and Purdue outpointed Carnegie Tech last Saturday.

Northwestern conquered Ohio State Saturday, but suffered the possible loss of two regulars, center Harold Weldin and halfback Ken Meenan The latter probably will be able to play against Illinois Saturday, but Weldin is expected to be missing for two weeks

Wisconsin and Minnesota, which meets in the most important contest on the Big Ten bill for this week, are bearing down in making ready. Defeat means elimination from the championship race, and the Badgers in particular, are eager for victory over their old rivals, to help wipe out memory of last week's disastrous defeat by Pennsylvania.

For the first time of the season, Purdue expects to have all hands ready for action, and that means nothing but bad news for Chicago. This week the Maroons, ill-equipped to start with, suffered the loss of three linemen, leaving Amos Alonzo Stagg with almost no replacements.

Indiana's forces are so elated by their one-sided victory over Chicago last week, that hope is entertained for a triumph over Ohio State. The Hoosiers suffered no losses in man power, and playing at home, are figuring on an upset. The Buckeyes, however, will be favored to give Indiana its first beating of the conference campaign.

Coach Hunk Anderson is confident that Notre Dame will defeat Carnegie Tech when they meet at Pittsburgh Saturday, but has not forgotten that 19 to 0 surprise the Skibos handed out in 1925. Anderson was in charge of the Irish squad that day, while the late Knute Rockne watched the Army and Navy battle in Soldier field, Chicago, and Carnegie may expect no mercy.

BUCKEYE RESERVES IN STIFF WORKOUT

By United Press

COLUMBUS, O, Oct. 27—With the Ohio State varsity football players excused from Monday's practice, the second team went through a stiff practice against the freshmen

Duke Welever, Joe Hoffer and Herb Kull scored touchdowns against the frosh. Jack Greenberg, of the second stringers, carried the ball capably.

The Buckeye first team was to begin its serious preparation for the game with Indiana today.

Halfback Bill Carroll, who has an infected foot, may not be able to play against the Hoosiers. John Fuglit, another injured halfback, reported for practice yesterday but was unable to scrimmage.

Coach Sam Willaman said he would not alter his lineup for the game this week.

FRIEDMAN SIGNS TO PLAY PRO FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—Benny Friedman, assistant Yale football coach, returns to his former berth as quarterback of the New York Giants professional football team Sunday.

Friedman, former Michigan all-American star, who deserted the Giants to coach at Yale, signed a Giant's contract yesterday and will play with the pro team for the balance of the season. His salary is reported to be the largest ever paid a professional player.

Death of Grid Star Mourned at West Point

By The Associated Press

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 27—Back to West Point today came Richard Brinsley Sheridan, Jr., to find a last resting place with some of America's most distinguished soldiers

The 21-year-old Army football star and honor student died in New Haven hospital late yesterday of a broken neck suffered in the Yale game Saturday.

In the general grief that was felt at the academy over Sheridan's death among cadets and officers alike, there was no disposition to talk, or even think of what course the Army would pursue in regard to the games remaining on its 1931 football schedule

But there was a distinct feeling that the team would "carry on" and play out a schedule that calls for games against Colorado College, Louisiana State, Pittsburgh, Ursinus, Notre Dame and Navy. It was pointed out that Army has contract obligations with these schools that hardly can be disregarded In addition to the inconveniences done opponents, cancellation would involve about $1,000,000 in receipts of which $400,000 estimated receipts of the Navy game, would go to the relief of the unemployed Final decision as to what course will be pursued rests in the hands of Major General William R Smith, superintendent of the academy

Yale and Harvard football officials and players hastened to express sympathy and the Notre Dame football squad requested that a special mass be said in the university chapel today

Sheridan, whose 149 pounds made him the lightest man on the army squad, was a varsity end from the start of the present season and his work had been outstanding in the cadets' early games. Last season, the first in which he was eligible for the varsity, he worked his way from the scrubs to a starting post in several games.

GENARO SHORN OF FLYWEIGHT CROWN

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 27—Frank Genaro, New York veteran who for years has been recognized by the American National Boxing Association as flyweight champion, has been shorn of his crown by a newcomer from Tunis, young Perez.

Perez knocked out the American veteran in the second round of a 15-round title bout here last night and, barring complications now unforeseen, will be recognized by the N. B. A. champion

After a slow first round, Perez tore into the American in the second round and ended the match in 30 seconds of the second round with a terrific right to the chin.

WASHINGTON—In LeRoy Bordeau, coaches at Georgetown university believe they have one of the country's hardest-hitting fullbacks

And there's reason for his title—"Wild ox of Adirondacks."

Now a senior, Bordeau has glittered two years with gridiron glory. This year is expected to bring brighter luster

His home in the Adirondacks of northern New York is nine miles from the nearest town. During his high school days in winter months he often walked the 15 miles to Franklin academy through banks of snow with the temperature sometimes reaching 35 degrees below zero.

He was never absent nor tardy

And he was a lumberjack of sturdy renown.

He felled 22 trees in one day to win the axe wielding crown of his territory

Too, he did a little "rassling" and boxing at the Saturday lumberjack reunions.—He now uses his hands well enough to win the heavyweight collegiate boxing championship of the South Atlantic.

Small wonder that this 180-pounder, of near North Bangor, has the lungs of a lion!

Note the powerful arms of LeRoy Bordeau, plunging fullback of the Georgetown Hoyas. Those muscles were developed from felling trees (shown left) in the Adirondacks. He's the pride of the nation's capital.

HARDING BOTHERED BY MINOR INJURIES

Bohyer Drills Presidents Against Mansfield Play; To Scrimmage Today.

With the second string lineup using Mansfield formations and plays against the regulars, Coach D N. Bohyer put his Harding grid charges through a fairly strenuous practice drill yesterday in preparation for the annual conflict with the Tyger team here next Saturday. The Red and Black gridders will be put through a scrimmage session today.

Bohyer also worked his men yesterday on tackling and blocking, a phase of the game in which the team has shown decided lack of form most of the season. Improvement was noted in the Bucyrus game but with Mansfield's fast offense, nearly perfect blocking and tackling will be necessary if the Murphymen are to be stopped.

All of the Harding squad reported for practice yesterday although several are pretty badly battered from the contest with Bucyrus last Saturday Junior Clay is still complaining of a sore ankle, a hangover of the game with Findlay two weeks ago Dick Morgan aggravated his old shoulder injury to a slight extent in the Bucyrus game but will be able to take part in all of this week's drill unless it is further injured. Most of the aches and bruises are of a minor nature and will not hinder the players in their drills for the conflict Saturday.

2 PLAYERS TIED IN OHIO SCORING RACE

Grimes of Mt. Union, Lanning of Wittenberg at Top of Point-Getters.

BY RALPH TEATSWORTH
United Press Staff Correspondent

Two consistent touchdown makers, Leo Grimes, Mount Union fullback, and Colin Lanning, Wittenberg halfback, today were leading Ohio college football players in scoring points. Each had accumulated six touchdowns, or 36 points

Another dangerous point-getter, Clark Gabriel of Ohio University quarterback, held second place with 31 points. Gabriel has scored four touchdowns and seven points after touchdown.

Three players were tied for third honors, with 30 points each. They are Martin Schnur of University of Dayton; Edgar Westfall of Ohio Wesleyan, and Wing of Baldwin-Wallace.

Terry of Wilberforce, the only player among the leaders with a field goal to his credit, was fourth in scoring, with 27 points.

The state's leading scorers and numbers of points for each follow.

Player and School	TD	FG	EP	T

1,200 PERSONS SEE ROBINSON CAPTURE SHOVEL MAT BRAWL

Referee Lacks Sense of Humor So Kilonis Loses Rough Battle.

BY KARL B. McELROY

The boys wrestled dirty last night at the Steam Shovel gym and 1,200 fans, the largest crowd ever to assemble in the hall for a sports event, liked it.

"The boys" included "Gentle John" Kilonis, the veteran give-and-take Greek, and Clyde Robinson, the St. Louis hill billy. Robinson was given the referee's decision.

Behind the decision rests a story with a great moral for all wrestlers. The moral could be phrased to read like this. "Never swing a right haymaker on a referee"

"Gentle John" discovered that you can put the official down but he is never out. The Greek had the bout all wrapped up in tissue paper when a slip turned the tide the other way

John won the first fall in 31 minutes with a series of flying headlocks. The boys hit each other with everything but the ring buffs when the match depended on good wrestling, Kilonis was there with the old colors flying

Robinson kicked Kilonis in the chin when the latter charged Clyde from the rear. A head scissors ended the fall which lasted 11 minutes

Things happened in the big way in the final and deciding fall The boys were butting, slugging and tossing each other out of the ring Kilonis outslugged Robinson in this fall and was so proud of the fact that he decided to demonstrate to Referee Walter Tooley of Dayton. It was a convincing but fatal demonstration for Tooley lacked the proper sense of humor. After taking the count from a right to the jaw, Tooley staggered to the struggling wrestlers and gave the bout to Robinson. The fall lasted four minutes and while the referee was picking daisies, Kilonis had Robinson's shoulders pinned to the mat.

Jack McCoy and Frank Wolf put on a fast bout that went the full 45-minute route with Wolf making the only fall in 33 minutes with airplane spin and slam

Ray Hamilton spotted Tiny Sharrock 110 pounds in the preliminary Sharrock won of course with a body press in four minutes He was too weighty a subject for Hamilton to handle.

Ted Isaacson, Seattle, sophomore tackle on the University of Washington football team weighs 263 pounds and stands six feet three and one-half inches.

Bishops at Full Strength for Battle with Bobcats

DELAWARE, O, Oct. 27—Possibility that Johnny Raugh, regular guard, will be available next Saturday when Ohio Wesleyan's Battling Bishops meet Ohio university at Athens for the Buckeye conference leadership was expressed Tuesday by George Gauthier, Bishop coach

Raugh was injured in the Denison game a week ago, and wasn't even in uniform for the Miami contest last Saturday He watched the game from the press box, being told by Gauthier to take no chances with his injury.

If Raugh is able to play against the Bobcats, his presence will strengthen the middle section of the Bishop line through which Miami made many of its gains Saturday. He will be needed especially against Ohio, for the latter team's spinner play is aimed directly at the guards and center.

The playing of Rod Campbell, regular halfback, against Miami was a source of satisfaction to Gauthier. It was the first time this year that the heavy, hard-hitting veteran has shown the form which made him valuable to the team two years ago when, as a sophomore, he flashed brilliantly.

For the first time this season the Bishops may be able to put a strong backfield into the game this week. Howard Greaves, fullback, and Edgar Westfall, quarterback, have both been used in recent games although neither was in excellent condition Both came through the Miami game without further aggravation of their injuries, and they are expected to be in tip-top shape for the Ohio tussle.

DEMPSEY OFFERED MIAMI, FLA., FIGHT

Johnston Suggests Jack Meet Campolo or Carnera Sometime in February.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 27—If he's really serious about that comeback attempt, Jack Dempsey can have 40 per cent of the gate receipts for a match in Miami, Fla., next February against either Victorio Campolo or Primo Carnera

James J Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, said he had been informed that the old Manassa Mauler was prepared to come east to discuss the proposition if necessary. Dempsey, preparing for a come-back with an extensive barn storming tour of the far west, now is on a hunting trip in Nevada

Observers considered it unlikely Dempsey would accept the terms Johnson has offered

Whether Dempsey accepts the garden definitely is committed to a boxing show at Miami next winter. Johnston has been working for some time with a view toward getting Max Schmeling to defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker.

Railways' Dividend Omission Has Adverse Effect on New York Market.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — Wall street's attention returned to domestic affairs today, and further consideration of the status of corporate earnings and dividends sent share values into another slow decline

Illinois Central's dividend omission, while expected, had an adverse influence on sentiment, and traders were wary of the buying side of the market pending the quarterly statement and dividend announcement of the U. S. Steel corp. due after the close of the market.

Illinois Central dropped to new low under 20 off about 5 points, and Santa Fe and Union Pacific registered similar losses Miscellaneous issues off 2 to 4 points included New York Central, New Haven, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, North American, Public Service of N. J., Sears Roebuck, American Tobacco "B", International Harvester, Eastman and McKeesport. U. S. Steel, General Motors, standards of N. J and California, Anaconda and Kennecott were among issues off a point or more.

News from Washington, news that the administration had completed its study of railroad securities, but would hold action in abeyance until the executives decide what they will do with the interstate commerce commission's proposals, was received with mixed sentiments. Banking circles particularly interested in railroad financing however, were inclined to feel that an eventual agreement between the executives and the commission would be reached

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

A plentiful supply of hothouse tomatoes, replacing the homegrown variety, is coming on the market now, dealers report, with the quality said to be very good. The price varies, but many dealers are asking about 15 cents a pound.

Late radishes, both the button and icicle varieties, are light on the market, with some dealers unable to obtain a further supply. A few are selling at five cents a bunch as three bunches for 10 cents Head lettuce is down a little in price now, with many dealers asking 15 cents for two heads. The quality is said to be good, with a plentiful supply coming in. Celery cabbage is getting near the end of its season with the supply lightening continually. The quality remains good, dealers say, with prices about 10 cents a head

Very little price change was shown in fruits, with Florida grapefruit and apples remaining at the same prices. Demand is reported as steady.

CITY IS DEFENDANT IN $56,000 SUIT

Marysville Woman Brings Damage Action After Fall Two Years Ago.

The city of Marion was named defendant in a $56 000 damage suit filed in common pleas court late yesterday by Clara Bell Bailey of Marysville. Damages are asked for injuries resulting from a fall on the sidewalk on Olney avenue Oct 28, 1929

The city was unlawfully negligent in permitting the sidewalk along the street to become rough and uneven, and crowded out of position by tree roots and in neglecting to have the rough spot where she stumbled and fell guarded, she charges

A contusion of the right knee developed into chronic ulcer which can not be cured except by amputation of the leg she charges The ulcer also has resulted in toxic poisoning of her entire system, she adds. The petition asserts that she suffered a concussion of the brain and internal injuries

She was 47 years old and in good health at the time of the mishap but is now in very poor health and facing the necessity of having the leg amputated, she states She asks $56 000 damages and $720 medical services. Attorneys Carter W Schwemer and Roy W Roof of Kenton represent the plaintiff

YOUNG SINGER WINS FAME IN 3 YEARS

By International News Service

NEW YORK—Thousands of hopeful young operatic aspirants, painfully practicing their scales in hall bedrooms, would give all they possess to stand in the shoes of Serafina Di Leo, for those shoes have carried her from the worn pavements of New York's east side to stardom in the most famous opera houses of Europe

Three years ago the youthful Serafina was just another music student, with a great gift to be sure but with as little probability of developing it as of reaching the moon Now at 19 she has returned to her native land from Italy with a debut at La Scala to her credit and a five-year contract with the Chicago Civic Opera company tucked away for safe keeping

Fate Takes Hand

It was when she was 16 that a very frightened Serafina knocked on the door of the Giovanni Martinelli home She had come to beg a ticket to the Metropolitan She must hear the great Martinelli sing Here Fate took a hand in the career of the plucky girl Mrs Martinelli questioned her as to her ambitions and suggested that she sing This was the chance for which the girl had been waiting—Serafina sang Martinelli was hastily summoned The famous tenor agreed that something must be done to perfect this marvelous voice Patronesses became interested in the earnest young person and within a few months she sailed to Italy to complete her education as a dramatic soprano

Money was not spared in providing the best instruction, so under Maestro Fernando Tanara she worked and worked

Real Test Comes

Then came the summons to appear at La Scala, Milan's famous opera house At three in the afternoon word came to prepare for the leading role in that evening's performance of "Forza del Destino" No rehearsals no preliminary concerts Such a thing was unheard of at the conservative La Scala.

As for the performance itself, Serafina's black eyes shine and she giggles excitedly as she tells about it. "It was more like a prizefight than an opera. Everyone yelled and stamped and cheered," she explains Such was the reception of the only American girl ever to take a leading role as the famed La Scala

After that there was a succession of concerts "The critics were so kind" says Serafina as she holds out a handful of gold medals

Gives Teachers Credit

Just now the black-haired artist's greatest fear seems to be that her teachers and friends will not get their share of credit for her success. Ever since she was 12 she has studied with Mme Novelli except when she worked with Tanara. It was he who gave her the finish, the poise, that raised her from mediocrity Upon that she insists

With all her success, Serafina is a delightfully well balanced, normal young person, with none of the airs of the temperamental artist

A very capable girl is Serafina able to take a hand with the housekeeping or cook up a dish of spaghetti Find her at the piano and she is just as apt to be playing jazz as an aria. She loves modern music and she likes to dance, too

What does she like to do best? "Ack," says Serafina, "throw myself into my part. I couldn't ever tire of it But there is so much for me to learn They say that a good house must have a firm foundation."

Miss Martinelli and Miss Serafina Di Leo. — Serafina in the Kitchen

BATTLE AGAINST MALARIA GAINING

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO—Progress in the fight against malaria and a variety of other tropical diseases was reported by Dr H H Anderson of the Pacific Institute of Tropical Diseases of the Hooper Foundation, University of California, on his return from a Central American trip

Dr Anderson who was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Koch, laboratory expert, spent several weeks conducting experiments in tropical disease cases at the Gorgas Memorial hospital, Panama Canal Zone, and also conducted clinics at the Santo Thomas hospital in Panama City

The experiments were conducted with a new drug called carbarsone developed by Chauncey D Leake head of the department of pharmacology of the University of California.

The curative tests of the new drug were satisfactory, but not conclusive, Dr Anderson said He brought back a spider monkey and two white-faced Panama monkeys some guinea pigs and parakeets on which to conduct further experiments

Fruit, Produce Shipments Surpass All Former Marks

Figures compiled by the Pennsylvania railroad and received at the Marion offices show that at the close of the summer fruit and vegetable season last week nearly 300,000 carloads of perishable produce was moved over the Pennsylvania lines this year. This marks the largest season's movement in the history of the railroad, it is reported. The 1931 season showed an increase of almost 10 per cent over last year's mark.

Seventeen thousand carloads of white potatoes were shipped from the Del-Mar-Va peninsula of Virginia. Solid train lots of sweet potatoes and cucumbers were also moved from the same region. Frequent shipments were made of 120 carloads of white potatoes to a train during the season. Peaches shipped to the north also accounted for a large portion of the volume.

A special freight train schedule was prepared in advance to enable these shipments to reach the market in time for sale. An example of this is cited in a report from the railroad general offices, stating that strawberries loaded in the fields of North Carolina reached the markets of Philadelphia and New York City the second morning following shipment. The same policy was carried out in shipping other fruits and vegetables, the report stated.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling feel. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

COMMISSARY WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Welfare Society Works on Clothing Supply for Needy Unemployed.

Although the work of sorting the clothing to be placed in the commissary department of the Family Welfare society has not been completed, a sufficient supply has been repaired and cleaned to assure the opening of the place Wednesday afternoon, it was announced today at the organization's headquarters.

Shoes, clothing and bedding are being carefully sorted and arranged and will be placed on the shelves for distribution as early as possible.

Although the weather has not been severe, many calls for assistance have come into the office from needy families and these will be taken care of immediately, it is announced.

The commissary will be open each day from 1 to 3 p. m. during the week, with the exception of Saturday when the hours will be from 10:30 a. m. to 12 noon. Miss Alice Hane is in charge of the commissary and the distribution of clothing will be done by Mrs. Frank Grubaugh who was in charge of the work last year.

The work will be carried on along the same plans as last year and applicants will first be interviewed by Mrs. Jane Alexander, who is in charge of the investigations and interviews.

TOLEDO DEACONESS IS SPEAKER HERE

Sister Alma Boarts of the Glenwood Lutheran church in Toledo, addressed a meeting of the Luther League of St. Paul's English Lutheran church, Sunday night.

Her talk was of interest to the young people, dealing with questions often arising regarding the work of a deaconess, her training and the purpose of a deaconess in the church.

Some of the questions which Sister Boarts answered follow: "What is a deaconness:" "How many deaconesses are there in the country:" "Why are they called sister:" "What training do deaconesses receive:" "How long does the course of training last:" "What is the cost of A deaconess training:" "What does a deaconess do:" "What do they wear a garb:" "Does a deaconess sever connection with her family and friends:" "What is a mother house."

CHUTE-CHUTE TO SAFETY.

Just two seconds after a fire drill alarm was sounded in a Brooklyn, N. Y., hospital, these nurses whipped through the modern fire escape chute which runs from the top or fourth floor of the institution to the ground. In the demonstration it was shown that the hospital's population, with all its patients, attendants and nurses, could be brought to the ground from three to five minutes after the first alarm was sounded. With the old-type fire escape it would have taken at least half an hour. Mattresses are used for cushioning down the chutes.

Hard on Pride

ALL the tumblers aren't on the stage, and all the high-steppers aren't all dead yet.

One young man of Marion, very sedate and not given to laughing at anything that puts him in an embarrassing light, was temporarily "squelched" one night not long ago.

He and his girl friend sat in the back row at the Palace, avidly watching the great Garbo emote. They rose to leave and the young man forgot that there's a slight step-off from the back row into the aisle, and landed on all fours plunk in the middle. His hat was jammed in one hand, and his topcoat spread out like a fan.

The funny thing, though was the grunt he emitted. It sounded for all the world like Garbo saying "No" in that deep, Swedish voice. Everyone around had a good time, except the young man. Then he decided that if the entire theater, including the girl friend, was enjoying his debacle, he might as well laugh with his audience.

Pat on the Back

TO be an Ohioan is a privilege in the opinion of Mrs. Omar O. Putman of 5208 Woodland avenue, Kansas City, Mo. In a letter to Karl Schell, president of the chamber of commerce, she describes what an attractive state Ohio is, with its wealth of beautiful and orderly farms, and its beautiful country. The letter followed a motor tour through this state by she and her husband last summer.

Marion county residents will take pride in the statement of Mrs. Putman that the Future Farmers band of Marion county helped form a favorable impression of Ohio for Mrs. Putman. She heard the band during the national convention of the Future Farmers in Kansas City last year, where the band, the first of its kind in the country, made a decided hit. She says these fine manly boys were a fitting example of what pride and progressiveness will do."

Real Home-Brew

NEAT bits of cure-alls for the world are found in odd places sometimes. Lying on the desk of Central Junior High school the other afternoon was a typing test sheet. These sheets are often articles written by well known men of affairs which have been borrowed for speed test purposes.

This test of 2,326 words, on "Home-Brew with a 'Kick' in It," The opening paragraph was rather startling: "What the country needs today is an additional kind of home brew." The author continued, "If I can get about half as many people working on my 'stuff' as there are today in America brewing liquids with a 'kick' in them, the country can go on a new type of dissipation and become intoxicated with the stimulus of optimism and laughter.

"This article is not a dissertation on prohibition. It is not an attempt to prove that the country is wet, or dry; or that it is a good thing for the country to be Wet or Dry.

"All I ask, for my home brew—a concoction of optimism, industry, fair play and faith—is a million able-bodied men and women to assemble the hops of optimism, the malt of industry, the yeast of fair play, and the water of faith. Mix these ingredients in the kettle of the family circle and start the home fires burning.

"Perhaps there is psychology back of my prescription. The nation's mind is obsessed with certain problems of negative value. The solution of a happier destiny for us all is for every man and woman to go to work on my home brew.

"Industry is the most potential ingredient. It is basic. Mix the others in their proper proportions, consume it at the rate of a quart a day, and don't be bashful about passing it around to the neighbors.

"When everybody's thoroughly intoxicated with my prescription, the wheels of industry will turn, and honest happiness will be rampant in the land."

And the article ends with the cheery gesture.

"Here's hoping! Bottoms up!"

BREEDERS' GROUP TO HOLD SALE JAN. 5

Ohio Shorthorn Association Directors Meet at Hotel Harding.

Approximately 40 head of cattle will be sold at auction Jan. 5 at Columbus, it was decided yesterday afternoon in a meeting of the directors of the Ohio Shorthorn Breeders' association at Hotel Harding. The sale will be conducted at the new judging pavilion at Ohio State university. The cattle will be consigned to the association by farmers over the state.

David M. Fyffe, representative of the College of Agriculture livestock department of Ohio State university, was the speaker at the meeting. W. C. Rosenberger of Tiffin, president of the association, presided. The remainder of the session was devoted to a discussion of the sale. Rosenberger and F. G. Ross of Mansfield will be in charge at the auction.

Among those attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberger, Thomas D. Phillips of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the association, Homer T. Myers of Prospect, Rudolph Isler of Prospect, Earl Gordon of Mt. Gilead, Dr. F. F. Fields of Meeker, Arthur Blackmore of Troy and P. G. Ross of Mansfield.

THREE WOMEN FILE DIVORCE PETITIONS

All Charge Husbands with Gross Neglect and Extreme Cruelty.

Three divorce actions were filed in common pleas court yesterday. In All three, the wife was plaintiff, charging the husband with gross neglect and extreme cruelty.

Margaret E. Holt asked divorce from Elias M. Holt, custody of their two children, alimony and an order restraining her husband from disposing of his property during the pendency of the action. Because of his abuse and cruelty, she was obliged to leave their home Sept. 26 this year to protect her life, she states. As further evidence of his alleged "ungovernable temper," she charges that he struck her in the eye with a dipper Oct. 25 when she returned to their home to see their son and to take some clothing to him. Her nose and face were cut and bruised and her left eye became black from the bruise, she charges. She is represented by the law firm of Carhart, Warner & Carhart.

A divorce from Clyde R. Thomas and an order restoring her to her former name of Bertha Hansen is asked by Bertha Thomas in her petition. He is guilty of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, she asserts. He abused her child by a former marriage, she charges. They were married at Columbus Nov. 22, 1927, according to the petition. Homer E. Johnson is counsel for Mrs. Thomas.

Charging her husband is in the Ohio state reformatory at Mansfield for burglary and is guilty of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, Leveda Beaver asks a decree from James Beaver and restoration to her maiden name of Leveda Calloway. He has been guilty of abuse, she asserts. Homer E. Johnson represents Mrs. Beaver.

Makers Of Vicks VapoRub Score Another Advance In Home-Control Of Colds

Vick Chemists Develop the Perfect Ally to Vicks VapoRub—Introduces New Idea in Preventing Colds and Makes Possible the Vick Plan to Reduce the Family "Colds-Tax."

FREE TRIAL PACKAGES

Local Druggists Have Free Samples for Users of Vicks VapoRub.

Mothers of two generations have depended on Vicks VapoRub for treating the family's colds. Now, in 26 million homes, they welcome the newly discovered perfect ally to VapoRub—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these two ideal, direct applications provide the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

Here is the Vick "Colds-Control" Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

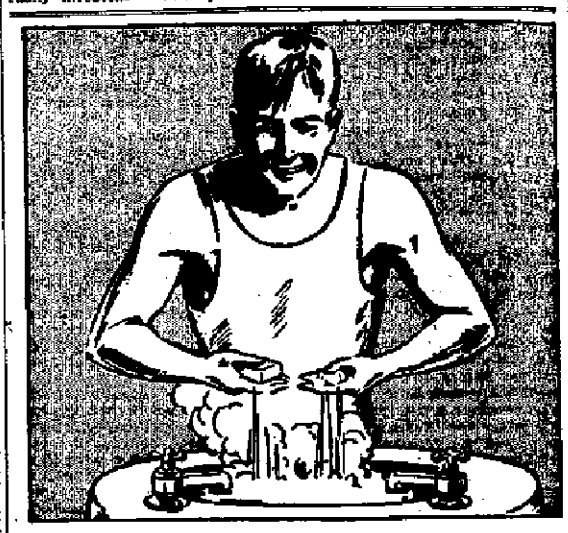
On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes

During the day—anytime, anyplace—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, try the new Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Packages Free.

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may test the new Vick Plan of better "Control of Colds" in the home, every druggist in the United States has been sent a limited supply of samples. Get yours today. If your druggist's supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail you a trial package of Vicks Nose Drops—also a sample of Vicks Medicated Cough Drops) together with a folder on the Vick Plan for "Control of Colds" in the home. Address Vick Chemical Co., 1003 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C.—Adv.



WASH your troubles AWAY

Skin troubles are real troubles to the thousands who suffer from acne, ringworm, scabies, "athlete's foot," eczema, dandruff, oily skin and kindred ills.

But skin troubles can be washed away, leaving a complexion as fresh, smooth, clear and velvety as Nature intended it should be.

Thylox Sulphur Soap has been compounded from the new Thylox pure, colloidal sulphur and selected soap oils to bring you relief from the annoyance and irritation of skin disorders.

The colloidal sulphur in this new soap is so fine that its minute particles penetrate right into the pores of the skin, attacking the infection at its seat. Thylox Sulphur Soap has been thoroughly tested and proved in laboratories and clinics. It has met with such amazing success in relieving skin disorders that this new soap is now offered to the general public through local druggists at the modest price of 35c per cake—$1.00 per box of three. Buy a cake of Thylox Sulphur Soap today and "wash your troubles away."

Children returning to school, the shorter days and the danger of skidding on wet leaves, are reasons given for the unusually large number of accidents during this period.

"Children have returned to the school room in all parts of the country after months of freedom in the open, and will not exercise the caution they will later in the year. It therefore behooves the motorist to watch out for the youngsters crossing the street," Mrs. Gallagher said.

She also urged that the motorists allow more time to get to his work. The presence of children on the streets, means more delay at street intersections.

"Darkness comes all too soon at this season and a careful watch should be kept for children who have wandered into streets, especially those on roller skates. Falling leaves on wet streets offer a serious traffic hazard and too sudden application of the brakes will cause skidding with resultant dangers," she said.

How Sensible Folks Conquer Rheumatism

An inexpensive prescription that starts to drive uric acid poisons from body in 24 hours.

Stopping the almost unbearable agony in joints and muscles with opiates or pain deadening drugs is easy—it's even worse than taking strong drink to drown your sorrow and bury your worries.

Allenru, the prescription so much in demand by wise people, is safe, harmless and speedy—it absolutely conquers the pain and agony of rheumatism in 48 hours—it is positively guaranteed to do it.

It goes further—being a scientific formula, it drives from your joints, muscles and blood the uric acid deposits—it overcomes and removes from your entire body the cause of rheumatism.

People suffering from terrible attacks of rheumatism, sciatica, neuritis or lumbago that prevents them from doing their daily labor can be back at work again in 48 hours.

Allenru guarantees this joyful result so why not get an 85 cent bottle from Henney & Cooper or any modern druggist with the distinct understanding that it must do just as this notice states or money back.—Adv.

Mail Early, 1st Reminder That Christmas Nears

Although Christmas seems weeks away, for the person planning to send gifts to foreign countries it is high time to be looking about for gifts to be mailed along the middle of November and early in December, French Crow, Marion postmaster, points out.

Postmaster Crow urges that all parcels be mailed as early as possible in order to assure delivery for Christmas. It is not possible to state when parcel-post packages will be delivered due to customs formalities that must, in most cases be complied with before actual delivery is made to addressees.

A list of the latest dates on which articles should reach Atlantic and Pacific coast ports for delivery in foreign countries and certain United States possessions by Christmas follows: Brazil, Argentina, Dec. 4; Austria, Bulgaria, Colombia, Czechoslovakia, Gibralter, Greece, Hungary, Norway, Poland, Rumania, Spain, Sweden, Turkey, Dec. 11; Azores Islands, Dec. 2; Bahamas, Dec. 20; Belgium, Denmark, England, France, Germany, Ireland, North and Irish Free State Luxemburg, Nicaragua, (Bluefields) Salvadore, Scotland, Switzerland, Dec. 15; Bermuda, Dec. 22; Canal Zone, Jamaica, Panama, Dec. 16; Chile, Egypt, Peru, Dec. 5; Costa Rica, Dec. 10; Cuba, Dec. 21; Haiti, Newfoundland, Porto Rico, Virgin Islands, Dec. 17; Italy, Trinidad, Dec. 12, Atlantic coast.

Dates for sailings from the Pacific coast are Australia, Nov. 27; China, Dec. 5; Hong Kong, Nov. 28; Hawaii, Dec. 16; Japan, Dec. 5; Netherlands, East Indias, Nov. 21; New Zealand, Nov. 27; Philippine Islands, Nov. 26; Straits Settlements, Nov. 21, and Siam Nov. 21.

For quick lunch counter use an electrical device has been invented that toasts from five to ten buns or eight slices of bread at once.

Raspberry Bush Works Overtime

WHILE grapes and other fruits shipped to local markets from warmer climates are getting the call at present, O. S. Eaton of Mt Uncapher avenue is eating home-grown red raspberries grown in his own garden.

Although the bush is not bearing heavily, enough of the fruit has ripened to prove the berries are real and there also are a number of blossoms and partially ripe berries.

The bush is an everbearing variety and is three or four years old.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.—Adv.

Must Halt Tax Boosts, Local Farmers Are Told

C. A. Dyer, Legislative Agent of Ohio Farm Bureau and State Grange, Addresses Meeting in Courtroom; Hits $7,500,000 Bond Issue for Welfare Work.

Declaring that the future of the United States depends on efforts now exerted to hold down the increasing mountain of taxes, C. A. Dyer of Columbus legislative agent of the Ohio Farm bureau federation and the Ohio state grange, urged cooperation between members of tax reduction committees and county and township officials in an address before a joint assemblage of Farm bureau members and members of the grange last night in the common pleas courtroom in the courthouse

Dyer declared that there is better legal machinery in Ohio with a few exceptions, for reducing taxes and expenditures than in any state in the union. The greatest need for correction, he said, is in the budget laws and that there should be an amendment to the tax laws providing that if seemingly unnecessary tax laws are made by any officials and can not be removed through these officials there would be a higher authority furnishing this opportunity.

Stowe Presides

S. A. Stowe, grange member presided at the meeting first introducing Clarence Bushong of Prospect, investigator for the Marion County Taxpayers' league. Bushong in reviewing the work done by the league since its inception declared that savings of more than $122,000 have been effected in Marion county through cuts in townships and school district budgets.

Warren F. Perry of Columbus executive secretary of the Ohio Manufacturers association was introduced by Stowe. He reviewed the work of tax leagues and congratulated the farm group in Marion county on the fine manner in which it has responded to the movement. He promised his aid in carrying on the work of the league here stressing the point that there must be harmony between the members and the tax officials. The movement he said is bound to succeed with proper aid and cooperation from farmers and business men alike.

Hits Bond Issue

Assailing the proposed state bond issue of $7,500,000 for welfare purposes Dyer said that for the first time in the history of Ohio a force was being set up superior to the state legislature in that the commission to have charge of the issue would have the right to take from the state treasury at any time funds for the retirement of the bonds.

"Politics should be good business," Dyer stated "and the people can make it that if they go at it in the right way. The democracy of the state is at the acid test right now. The people must either take an active part and interest in the government or see this country follow countless others which have fallen to ruin through excessive taxation."

Supporting his statements, Dyer said that one out of every eight persons has a hand in the United States treasury and that the average man works six weeks out of each year to pay his taxes.

"The farm folks in Ohio who are reasonably out of debt are the best off of any on God's green earth," Dyer said. "They are close to their markets, do not have any worry about food, clothing or shelter. These items make up 52 per cent of the worry of the city man."

In summing up his statements, Dyer said that the people in general were tired of certain ones bearing the tax burden with others dodging it. He said that new sources should be sought, not to increase the tax revenue, but to shift the burden from farms and homes to other articles. Tangibles he said, are paying about 75 per cent of the taxes, while they are valued at only one-third of all the wealth in the state.

GETS PROMOTION

EUGENE J. KELLY

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 27.—Eugene J. Kelly, executive assistant to Howard F. Dugan, manager of the Statler hotel here, has just been appointed special representative of Hotel Pennsylvania in New York.

Announcement of this promotion for the popular Cleveland hotel man was made by Frank A. McKowne, president of Hotels Statler Co., Inc. The appointment was made by Leo A. Mulvey, manager of Hotel Pennsylvania.

Following his experience in several other hotels, Kelly joined the Statler organization in Cleveland. He advanced rapidly through many office positions, became credit manager, assistant manager and then executive assistant to Manager Dugan.

BOARD OPENS BIDS FOR STREET PAVING

Court Order Restrains Granting of Contract; Ammann Brings Action.

Although restrained by court order from letting a contract for the improvement of Clover avenue in Claridon Heights, the county commissioners yesterday received and opened the bids of contractors for the project. The bids will be retained pending developments in the injunction action brought against the board by Harry A. Ammann, owner of property along the avenue.

A tabulation of bids shows that the firm of Mallory & Seckel placed a low bid of $2,055.50. Other bids were placed by Brady & O'Connell, $2,525.50, H. V. Irey, $2,906, S. M. Wooley, $2,890.50, and Uncapher & Gillispie, $2,601. The estimated cost of the improvement was $2,955.55.

The proposed improvement lies entirely outside the city limits, and its cost would be borne entirely by owners of property abutting on the avenue. The question of whether the street has been officially dedicated and the lots platted has been raised by Ammann who charges the assessments will be confiscatory.

HOMECOMING, RALLY DAY PROGRAM GIVEN

Green Camp Baptist Church Holds All-Day Services.

GREEN CAMP, Oct. 27.—Rally day and homecoming services were held at the Baptist church in Green Camp Sunday. An orchestra from the First Baptist church in Columbus played. Rev. V. P. DEMOCRATS AT PARTY RALLY

Candidates Speak at Meeting in Headquarters on East Center Street.

A pre-election meeting of the Marion County Democratic club last night in the headquarters on east Center street, brought out approximately 65 members including several candidates for election on Nov. 3.

Harry T. Bell candidate for treasurer, urged the party to get its members to the polls on election day, suggesting that unofficial ballots be distributed among friends of the members.

Stresses Offices

Stress was laid upon the importance of the offices of auditor and treasurer by Howard Guthery, president of the club and by Dr. C. J. Altmaier, Democratic chairman who gave short talks.

Homer E. Johnson candidate for municipal judge on the non partisan ticket, expressed confidence in the coming election and pledged himself to reduce operating expenses of the office if elected.

Dr. Altmaier in his talk reiterated his belief in democratic efficient and honest government, saying "We have no apologies to make in this election. I think the L. Don Jones administration has been a good one, and the people of Marion can have confidence in the return of the Democratic council with C. E. Merkel the watch dog' o' the people's interests, as president.

Others Speak

Remarks were made by L. A. Axe, H. R. Krebs formerly of the city engineers office and Henry Mickley. Morris Kline, candidate for councilman-at-large. C. E. Merkel, candidate for reelection as president of the council, F. R. McDaniel, candidate for council and Homer Johnson, were introduced by Mr. Guthery, who presided.

Refreshments were served by the women. Mrs. Harry Baker, secretary of the club, announced a meeting of the Democratic women Thursday night at the headquarters, at which time an out-of-town speaker will be present. The club will meet in one week.

Clark To Speak.

John H. Clark, Marion attorney, will address the congregation of Fite Memorial Baptist church on the importance of the city one-mill levy for relief purposes, at a meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Classes To Meet.

The Willing Workers class and the Loyal Daughters class of Emmanuel Baptist church will have a wiener roast and masquerade party Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. McIntire of the Upper Sandusky pike. Husbands and families of members will be guests.

TO ATTEND MEETING HERE

WYANDOT COUNTY FARMER CLAIMED

Jacob Bloom, 89, Dies at Home of Son Enoch, Near Sycamore.

Special to The Star

SYCAMORE, Oct. 27—Infirmities of age caused the death of Jacob Bloom, 89, farmer, at the home of his son Enoch Bloom, near here Monday afternoon, following one-month illness.

Mr. Bloom was born in Waldgive, Germany, the son of Phillip Bloom and Alice Bair Bloom. He came to this country when five years of age and had spent much of his life in this vicinity. He is survived by five sons, Enoch, Dennis, Anson and Eliza, all of Tymochtee township in Wyandot county, and Austin, who had made his home with his father. Funeral services will be held at the home of Enoch Bloom at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday and at 2 p. m. at the Belle Vernon church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Powell of Tiffin and Rev. Mr. Perkins and burial will be made in the church cemetery.

DECIDES ON SURVEY OF SUPER-HIGHWAY

Merrell Takes First Steps Toward Building Western Ohio Road.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27—The long-awaited survey to determine whether a $13,000,000 super-highway should be constructed along the Miami-Erie canal in western Ohio between Toledo and Cincinnati will be started soon by State Department Director O. W. Merrell, it was announced here today.

Within a few days the director will appoint a special engineer to make a study to determine the feasibility of building a road on abandoned canal land through Defiance, Napoleon, Delphos, Minster, St. Marys, Spencerville, Troy, Piqua, Dayton, Middletown and Hamilton.

By an act of the 89th general assembly, the state highway department was given $20,000 with which to make the survey.

To take advantage of the appropriation, the highway department must begin its survey by Friday, Nov. 6, the date automatically fixed by the act which stated the study should start within 90 days after the bill became effective.

Regardless of the result of the survey, there is no hope that work on such a road could be started before 1933, due to strict economy which will be necessary next year as a result of contemplated slashes in the budget totaling almost $8,000,000, Merrell said.

COMISKEY FUNERAL THURSDAY MORNING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—The body of Charles A. Comiskey, baseball's "old Roman," came back to Chicago today to lie in state until funeral services are held Thursday morning.

The body of the owner of the Chicago White Sox, who died at Eagle River, Wis., yesterday, arrived home this morning. Services will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. at St. Thomas the Apostle Roman Catholic church, and burial will be in Calvary.

It is expected that control of the White Sox, which belonged to Comiskey—franchise, players and park—will pass to his son, J. Louis Comiskey.

Long Ambulance Trip.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27—Two Vinton county men, severely burned in a gas explosion at their general store at Hamden, O., were being treated at a hospital here today after a 70-mile ambulance trip. Edward M. Miller, 65, and his son, Ivan, 31, were burned about the face and hands when an accumulation of gas in their store was ignited by a match struck by one of the men. The explosion which followed wrecked the store. Neighbors pulled the two men from the wreckage. The Hamden Odd Fellows home, where the store was located, was damaged by the blast.

gone. Going over to his own place a short distance away, Harter said he found Northrup huddled on the bed. Taking a gun from near the bed, he ordered Northrup out and marched him back to his own residence. Upon arriving there, he said Northrup made a move toward him and he fired once. Northrup fell over on the bed and he fired again, Harter told police.

Harter said he had $16 in his trousers pockets and when he awakened in the Northrup home, it was gone, leading him to believe that Northrup had stolen it and gone to his home to obtain more.

The first shot is believed to have been the one striking Northrup in the back and was fired from a distance of seven or eight feet. The second one was fired when Harter was standing about three feet from the victim and was fired at his head.

Hides Revolver

Hiding the revolver in a ditch, Harter went back to his home where a neighbor told him of the shooting the next morning.

Harter told police that the body was fully clothed when he left, but when the victim was found, he was said to have been stripped of his clothing. Northrup's body was found by his brother, Ray, Saturday night.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon for the victim with several Marion relatives and friends attending. They were Mrs. W. C. Carnell and daughter, Betty Jane of 261 Patterson street and two uncles, Frank and and Cyrus Bennett of 680 Herman street. Maria and Fern Bennett daughters of Frank Bennett, also attended.

THREE HURT WHEN TRUCK HITS AUTO

Man, Wife and Son Taken to City Hospital After Collision.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey Locke of 539 Jefferson street, and their son Robert, 17, were taken to the City hospital yesterday at 11:30 p. m. suffering from minor bruises and cuts received when the car in which they were riding and which was being driven by the elder Locke, was struck by a truck driven by G. S. Harraman of 444 Forest street, at east Church and High streets.

The family were released from the hospital after their injuries had been dressed.

Police who were called, said Locke who was going north on High failed to stop when he approached Church street and drove into the intersection directly in the path of the truck which was east bound.

The Locke car was thrown against the curb by the collision and badly wrecked while the truck escaped with slight damage. The Locke family, suffering from minor cuts and bruises, were taken to the hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance.

Co-Eds Decisively Against Sharing Cost of "Dates."

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—Should the girl pay half the cost of the date? No—the reply coming en masse from the co-eds of the University of Chicago and of Northwestern University of Evanston, in reply to a suggestion made by President George Thomas of the University of Utah.

"Why should we?" asked June Mason, secretary of Northwestern university's junior class. "We never have, we never should, and we never will."

Five other co-eds asked the question at Northwestern and the University of Chicago gave, in effect, the same answers.

And the cost, they agreed, is from $3 to $10 for the average date, including theater tickets, dining and dancing.

GIVEN $10 FINE FOR COAL THEFT

That he had just returned from husking corn and needed a little coal which he intended to pay for this morning, was the story given P. Fellenbaum, proprietor of the Centennial Coal Co., by C. E. Zebolt of 224 Jefferson street when he was caught leaving the company's yards with a sack of coal yesterday at 11:30 p. m.

Fellebaum called the police and Zebolt was locked up on an investigation charge. He pleaded guilty to coal stealing when arraigned before Municipal Judge Martin this morning and was fined $10 and costs. He is being held pending payment of the fine.

CHICAGO GETS CASH FOR CITY TEACHERS

Corporation Buys Tax Warrants To Assist Relief of Financial Tangle.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 27—Cash for part of the salaries due the 12,000 Chicago school teachers, payless since April, was on its way to the city treasury today.

Officers of the Chicago surface lines voted to buy $2,250,000 worth of the anticipation warrants.

The money, expected by city officials to be available within a few days, will be split between the city treasury and the school board. At least $562,000 will go into the delayed pay envelopes for teachers.

Guy W. Richardson, vice president of the lines, announced that $1,500,000 worth of the 1930 warrants, and $750,0000 of the 1931 issue would be bought. They will be used, he said, to pay tax bills.

The surface lines company is the first large corporation which has offered to buy tax warrants to relieve the financial tangle of Chicago, brought on by Cook county reassessment troubles.

OLD SILVER MINE MAY BE REOPENED

Only Three Families Left in Once Thriving Texas Town.

By United Press

SHAFTER, Tex. — The mine where General Shafter and his fellow officers "took silver wealth from the grass roots," half a century ago, may be reopened. Closed more than a year ago by its owners, the American Metal Company, the mine still contains silver and, some say, gold.

Only the trees are cared for in this abandoned town and all but three of the employes of the mine have moved away. When the price of silver went down and the mine was closed, Shafter's heart almost quit beating.

There was no light plant, no power, and no water for gardens. Three hundred people left. Mexicans, who lived in adobe houses, took the doors, windows and roofs with them, and the sun-dried dirt walls are crumbling away.

Around them the trees flourish, watered carefully by company order. On the company's desire to keep the trees alive, and the reports that gold was found before the shutdown, the three families here base their hope for a reopening. They believe that if the price of silver was a little higher, the metal company would reopen the mine.

The mine and town were named for the famous general, to whom a wandering freighter brought the first nugget of silver, picked up at a random campsite. Shafter and other officers became interested and helped develop the mine.

APPEALS DECISION OF PROBATE COURT

Sarah Millikin Claims $10,000 Worth of U. S. Bonds Included in Estate.

Sarah Millikin, a creditor of the estate of Henry Hill, deceased, filed a petition in error in common pleas court yesterday seeking reversal of an order of the probate court which denied her claim for $10,000 worth of government bonds which she said Hill had in safe keeping for her at the time of his death.

She states that she filed exceptions to the inventory filed by Ruth Mitchell and Geraldine Hord, administratrices of the Hill estate, because the administratrices included the $10,000 worth of bonds in Hill's estate and refused to turn them over to her.

The probate court, according to the petition in error, did not allow the claim of $10,000. The Hill estate inventory showed personal property of $89,413.67 and real estate valued at $22,233.80.

Attorney J. H. Eymond represents Sarah Millikin.

COUNCIL TRANSFERS OPERATING FUNDS

Total of $13,750 Distributed; Safety Department Gets Big Share.

Money totaling $13,750 was transferred from the general fund by city council at its meeting last night for operating expenses of the various city departments. The transfers included $10,000 to the safety department, $2,250 to the sewage treatment department, $1,500 to the hospital and $500 to the service department.

The resolution also provided for the appropriating of the money into the following departments, $6,000 to the garbage collection department for payroll and $300 for auto supplies, $3,648 to the payroll of the police department, $2,900 to the payroll of the fire department, $200 for flushing of sewers and $200 to the department of lands and buildings of the service department.

GRANGE OPPOSES STATE BOND ISSUE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27—The Ohio State Grange today urged Ohio voters to defeat the proposed $7,500,000 welfare bond issue Nov. 3.

While favoring adequate care of unfortunate, the executive committee of the grange in a statement said it opposed the bond issue because no source of income required to retire the bonds was named, because it said, "the legislature avoided its plain responsibility by not providing these necessary welfare funds while in regular session," and because it felt the issue did not agree with the grange "pay-as-you-go" policy.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 27 — Mrs. Bessie Kerr, hitch-hiking from Ohio in search of work, gave birth to a daughter in a restaurant here yesterday. A four-year-old son, accompanying the woman on the trip, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Lodge Notes.—Business of the order was transacted at a weekly meeting of Marion Lodge No. 318, L. O. O. M. last night in the lodge rooms on east Center street.

MAN IN COURT TWO TIMES IN 24 HOURS

Dallas Messenger Sentenced to Jail and Fined.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing coal, Dallas Messenger, 56, of 238 north State street, was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning. He is being held pending payment of the fine.

Messenger was arrested in the basement of the Marion Vault Co., on north Main street Sunday night after he had thrown a quantity of coal into the alley.

Yesterday afternoon Messenger was given a sentence of six months in the county jail by Judge Martin on a charge of failure to contribute toward the support of his aged mother. The sentence was suspended on condition that he pay $2 a week toward her support.

Harry Messenger, a brother, was given a similar sentence by the court yesterday. Both were arrested last week on non-support affidavits filed in municipal court by Mary O. Davis.

Mr. Smart presided at the afternoon session which was featured by a roundtable discussion on home service.

Miss Anna Worrell, president of the Junior Red Cross Council at Columbus, outlined work of the organization.

POWER COMMISSION ISSUE BEFORE COURT

Presidential and Senatorial Authority Subject of Controversy.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27—Into the courts of law today marched for settlement the clear-cut question of presidential and senatorial authority.

Before Justice Peyton Gordon of the District of Columbia supreme court, the senate sought to force Dr. George Otis Smith from his position as chairman of the power commission. Its evidence to limit the authority of the chief executive was marshalled by one who sought that office in 1924 as the nominee of the Democratic party, John W. Davis.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper represented Chairman Smith, and indirectly, the President.

The court battle grew from the question whether the senate, after once confirming a Presidential nominee, could recall it.

It confirmed Chairman Smith, and shortly thereafter he had two other members of the reorganized commission dismissed. Solicitor Charles A. Russel and William V. King, chief accountant. King later was reinstated.

Aroused at the action, the senate voted reconsideration and asked President Hoover to return Smith's nomination. Mr. Hoover declined, holding to do so would set a precedent for senatorial dictation to every government official.

THREE BANDS, DRUM CORPS TO TAKE PART

American Legion Completing Plans for Armistice Day Observance Here.

Three bands and a drum corps will take part in the Armistice day parade Nov. 11. The Odd Fellows' band, the Eagles' band and drum corps and the Future Farmers' band have volunteered their services.

Plans for the celebration, which promises to be one of the most extensive yet held, are going forward rapidly, Lawrence E. Sager, general chairman, announced today. Fourteen organizations have signified their intentions of entering floats in competition for a cup while acceptance of the invitation given by the American Legion to take part in the parade, have been announced by a number of local organizations.

A band concert to be given by the combined bands, is now being considered as a feature of the program following the parade. The concert would in all probability be given on the courthouse esplanade.

A meeting of the general committee at the Legion Dugout Wednesday night, has been called by the general chairman. Other persons interested in the observance have been invited to attend.

MAY FREE ASSETS OF LOAN GROUPS

Bettman Ruling Likely To Provide Additional Funds.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27—Millions of dollars now tied up in mortgages may be turned into liquid assets by building and loan associations through an opinion by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman.

Bettman, who recently fought successfully to prevent promiscuous appointment of receivers for the associations by common pleas courts, ruled the associations may sell their equities in mortgages as a means of meeting current obligations.

The sale, Bettman held, must have the approval of the state superintendent of building and loan associations and must appear necessary for the payment of debts, enforcement of protection of the organization's securities, and preservation of its assets.

MILITIA WITHDRAWN IN BRIDGE DISPUTE

By The Associated Press

DURANT, Okla., Oct. 27—All was quiet on the Red River "front" today.

Traffic rolled uninterrupted over the Durant-Denison free bridge, while owners of the parallel toll span fretted at the delay in hearing of their petition for a federal injunction to close the free bridge.

National guardsmen, called out by Governor W. H. Murray, yesterday, just in case "something popped" at Muskogee, where Judge John C. Pollock was to hear the injunction petition of the Red River Bridge company, withdrew last night, Judge Pollock, due to a mixup in dates, did not appear. He tentatively set the hearing for next Monday in Kansas City, Kan.

HELD TO JURY ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Elias H. Holt of near LaRue, was bound over to the grand jury under $100 bond by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning when he waived examination on an assault and battery charge. He furnished bond and was released.

Holt was arrested at his home yesterday on an affidavit filed by his wife, Margaret Holt, charging that he had struck her during a quarrel on Oct. 25.

Daily Proverb—"The disgrace of the city is the fault of the citizens."

Jouett Shouse sees victory ahead for Democracy. Is it the same vision he saw ahead about this time three years ago?

Prussians are delighted over the Borah interview, but the Poles are displeased. It's the same old story. All depends on whose ox is gored.

All the parties in the campaign just closed over in Britain promised armament reduction. It will be interesting to note the gulf between promise and performance.

"Japan Declines To Obey League Order," read a headline over a London story yesterday. It might prove true economy were all newspapers to keep that one standing.

Ten persons killed in airplane crashes in different parts of the country Sunday. Give the plane a decade or two and it will have the record of the motor car beaten to a frazzle!

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, contends that the loans made in this country to Europe hurt the cause of peace. It's a cinch that they do—if augmented armaments are inimical to peace.

The Boarding of gold was roundly scored by the thirty-sixth council of the International chamber of commerce assembled in Paris last week. Nothing can so quickly cause economic distress as money hoarding and nothing so work to prolong it.

Premier Laval, of France, is reported by one Washington correspondent as feeling that his countrymen will hold him responsible for the Borah pronouncement in which the senator demanded a revision of the Versailles treaty. They shouldn't, and they wouldn't if they realized how little excuse the Hon. William needs to make a try at jimmying into the first page.

The Laval Visit.

It was easy for the United States and France to expect too much from the conversations between President Hoover and Premier Laval. If face-to-face conversations between the men who lead nations were more common, the present tendency to exaggerate their occasional personal contacts would be lessened. There is no reason why the relationship of statesmen should not become as direct as the relationship of business men has become, before much longer, by increasing use of the advantages of rapid transportation.

That, however, is a possibility of tomorrow. Today, the fact that the premier of the French government has crossed the Atlantic to talk with the head of the United States government is viewed as sensationally important. And indeed it is, viewed from the standpoint of encouraging development in international relations. Two men, talking over the interests and problems of the millions of people whom they lead, constitute a symbol of the modern era.

There is nothing in the text of the statement given out by President Hoover or Premier Laval that is exciting. Its most important passage, to Americans, is that pertaining to intergovernmental obligations, in which announcement is made that both the United States and France recognize that debt revision is an imminent possibility. The statement's greatest significance, in the long view, is that the United States and France have compared their views of world problems. As far as action is concerned, President Hoover and Premier Laval can no more bind their governments than a pair of political sages in a cigar store. They are the instruments of the modern type of government that withholds dangerous power from individuals. Isolationists, of which there are great numbers in both the United States and France, have nothing to fear. Their opinions will be heard before action is taken.

Within the last two years, the heads of the two most powerful governments in Europe have come to Washington to talk with President Hoover. The United States holds a definite place as a consulting partner in the business of keeping the world on a safe basis. If it were possible to stand off far enough to get the right perspective, there probably would be little question that this nation's international position is a desirable one.

The people have enjoyed Premier Laval's visit. He has convinced them of his sincerity. He has caused many of them to understand that, though the French position in certain matters is irreconcilable with the position of this nation, France is sincerely trying to secure the peace for which the United States, also, is working. Two men, talking over problems in Washington, have caused many men to start thinking about the same problems. They feel, and they expect time will prove them to have been right, that France and the United States will understand each other better as the result of Premier Laval's visit.

Navy Day.

This date, October 27, marks the tenth observance of Navy day, the day originally sponsored by the Navy League of the United States during which the thought of the American people might be directed to the glorious traditions of our navy—traditions which come down to us alike from times of war and times of peace, for the United States navy has proved a mighty factor in works of mercy in peace time as well as an offensive and defensive force in time of conflict.

The date was selected by the Navy league, a voluntary organization of individuals who seek to keep the American people in touch with naval matters for two reasons. One was that the first naval bill in American history was introduced in the Continental congress on this date 156 years ago, and the other was that it was the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who, more than any other man in the history of the land, adopted, preached and pursued an aggressive policy looking to the upbuilding and maintaining of a navy commensurate with our importance as a nation, a navy of sufficient size to meet our needs as a world power, a navy of such strength as to discourage attack and aggression and thus work for peace and against war.

Incidentally, it may be said that Mr Roosevelt was not the first president committed to the belief that preparedness is the most effectual means of preserving peace. That honor went to the "Father of His Country," who enunciated that doctrine January 8, 1790. Nor was he the last. This latter honor is held by the present incumbent in the presidential chair. And it may be said that practically all our presidents have been committed to preparedness, the more active champions among them in addition to the three indicated—Washington, Roosevelt and Hoover—being John Adams, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Jackson, Tyler, Grant, Arthur, Cleveland, McKinley, Taft, Harding and Coolidge.

Ours is a peace-loving nation. We do not seek territorial expansion at the cost of any other nation. We do not look with longing at the possessions of any other power. Our course as a nation following the World war demonstrated that beyond all question. But we do want to retain and enjoy in peace our American domain and adjacent island possessions, and to that end we should be so prepared that that enjoyment may not be threatened.

We have sometimes thought that the pacifist element in this country, the parlor pinks the yellows, the reds and the other enemies of our form of government have, by their steady flows of propaganda, lulled the patriotic element of the country into a thought of security we as a nation do not possess and that, as a result, we are not nationally prepared as we should be. During the last ten years England has laid down or made appropriation for naval tonnage of 354,000, France, 307,180, Japan, 289,700, and Italy, 206 170, against 185,170 by the United States. Let us not, in our desire for the limitation of armaments, overlook the fact that the limitation is largely restricted to us, let us not, on this Navy day, forget the words of Washington: "We shall more certainly preserve peace when it is well understood that we are prepared for war."

Jewelry valued at $50,000 was stolen from the cabin of a woman passenger on the Ile de France on that vessel's last westward trip while she was at breakfast in the dining salon. People who leave $50,000 worth of jewelry in an unlocked cabin of an ocean liner might well be held accessories before the fact.

It was a woman who held out against the other eleven members of a Minnesota jury and finally forced a report of inability to agree. And sometimes we see it referred to in type as "the weaker sex!"

Premier Mussolini asks that Europe be freed of the debts of war and that there be revision of the peace treaties. Benito has no doubt popularized himself in Berlin, but his request is not likely to endear him to Paris. But, come to think of it, that may be it Duce's way of running a little harpoon into the French.

Cyprus Fusses a Little.

Cyprus broke into the news last week. The Greek-speaking natives who have been restless a long time, broke out in demonstrations that could not be interpreted as anything less than anti British.

The Egyptians, the Venetians, the Turks, the Genoese the Arabs and the Romans all have had their innings in Cyprus, which was formally annexed to Great Britain in 1914 on the outbreak of war with Turkey. The British hand in Cyprus had been felt once before when Richard I took the island away from Isaac Comnenus in the twelfth century, later selling it to the Knights Templar. The Greek population never has had much of a chance. For years it has clamored for union with Greece, but Greece, strangely enough, has not shown any great desire to further the agitation. Greeks constitute the majority of the Cyprus population.

So long as Greece maintains this attitude, it is hardly probable that the repression measures taken by Britain will not avail.

Brazil is planning to make coffee bricks. There may be a demand for them, but it is hardly likely that they will ever possess the popular appeal of those turned out by the chiefs of Mabel Willebrandt.

Major Doolittle covered the 1,500 miles between Mexico and St. Louis, Monday, in seven hours and thirty five minutes flying time, averaging about 210 miles an hour. It wasn't a record speed but moving at the rate of about three and a half miles a minute is certainly going some.

The juice of a story from Riga is that Russia is short of money and hard hit as her credit stops. In one respect at least, it may be noted, Russia is pretty much like the rest of the world.

The four men who kidnapped a New York broker were given prison sentences of sixty years each. Some more sentences such as these and kidnapping will be liable to lose its appeal as a great outdoor sport.

READY, FOR FOREIGN VISITORS.

Editorial Opinion.

PERFUME.

When a magazine published in New York came out in scented covers the other day there was a lot of laughter and many sly jests about the appropriateness of the idea. Particularly was the opinion of the regular press that perfume on certain tabloids was one of the crying needs of the hour. Anyway, the episode stirred the enthusiasm of the editor of "Aromatics," a magazine devoted to the interests of the beauty culturists of the country, and a survey of the uses of perfumes by the ancients resulted. The editor writes that the idea was borrowed bodily from the ancients. Not only did the Italians and the French of the Restoration period perfume their books, but the book-makers used special odors for each variety of tome, attar of roses or musk for the Satires of Ovid, Suetonius and the Gay Latinists in general and lily, hyacinth for the pietistic authors, and so on. The custom served the double purpose of invoking the mood of the reader, and disguising the odors of the glue, leather and other material.

The new vogue of the moment, the wearing of scented beads and necklaces, dates from the Middle Ages, says "Aromatics." Perfume makers then benefited by the custom of both men and woman of wearing elaborate casolettes filled with aromatics and spices to guard the wearer against diseases and evil spirits.

Delving into the past, the magazine further informs us that

Kiss proof, or indelible lipsticks, were used by the Romans 1300 years B. C.

Cleopatra used many tints of lacquer for both finger and toe nails.

A 2,000-year-old compact containing eight different shades of rouge was recently discovered in France.

And there you have it. Perfumes have an honorable ancestry. They are in no way "modern." Indeed, they rank alongside the cave man and the rest of the characters in antiquity. So why worry? "What can't be cured must be endured?" writes the poet, to which we remark "O.K."—New Haven Register.

END OF THE JAZZ AGE.

Scott Fitzgerald returns from Europe convinced that America's jazz age is over. "It is as dead," he writes in the current Scribner's magazine, "as were the 'Yellow Nineties' in 1902." Its peak came in 1922 when the elders decided to take over the children's party. It was then that the spectacle of sixty-year-old flappers and gray-whiskered fox trotters became evident.

Fitzgerald seems to be right. Perhaps it was the depression, with consequent tightening of belts and sobering of mind that did it. But, while the flapper has passed on, let us hope, to properly sedate wifehood and motherhood, America still has a pleasant hangover from that glorious, ten-year jag.

It was the jazz age, let us not forget, that brought us emancipation from many of the silly conventions that, in turn, were a hangover from the "Yellow Nineties." Especially did it emancipate women, who now may admit openly that they have legs, smoke if they like and join their brothers in freedom of speech. Sex was emphasized, which was foolish; but debunked, which was a good thing. The nation, as a whole, learned to enjoy itself without being ashamed of it. Art went to pot, but will come back. And, best of all, we shelved our imbecilic inhibitions that took all the fun out of life after thirty.—Columbus Dispatch.

LUDENDORFF BLOWS UP.

"E. F. Ludendorff" was the magic wand which for years opened doors and gates in the realm of central Europe. A small green card with that name on it meant that whoever showed it would get anything he wanted. Motor cars and airplanes were at his disposal. Parliamentarians, industrialists and newspaper men hurried to come to his orders. For back of this green card stood the most powerful man between the North sea and the Caucasus.

Twelve years later. A "gold maker," an alchemist, is being condemned for embezzlement and fraud. The man who backs him is Ludendorff. A sensation? Hardly any more, for the hat around this name has paled long ago. It impresses few people.

What has become of Ludendorff? The man who reigned from Flanders to Bagdad publishes today, with the aid of his energetic wife, little pamphlets against Jews, Free Masons and Jesuits. He wages war on Christianity, rejects it as "incongruous with the German character" and makes propaganda for the "German science of God" which his wife invented.

Many laugh about him, but other Germans feel worried. How was it possible that this man determined our destiny?—F. F von Unruh in Frankfurter Zeitung.

A Horrible Example.

Advocates of government ownership of public utilities never tire of pointing to the postoffice department as an example. The present postal deficit is only $150,000,000.—Duluth Herald.

Air Baths for Baby.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Sun-bathing is popular all over the world. From the famous beaches to the ordinary backyard, this practice has received the endorsement of young and old.

The value of sunlight as a means of combating disease is appreciated by all. Certain foods are now manufactured which have been exposed to the sun. For this reason they are believed to be more valuable.

A good sun-tan improves the appearance. It gives its possessor a healthy and rugged appearance, and a feeling of well being.

Lately, great emphasis has been placed on the importance of air baths. I hope the popularity of air baths will come to equal that of sun baths. This is particularly important in the winter, when it is often not convenient to obtain the beneficial rays of the sun.

Air baths are of great advantage in that they tone up the texture of the skin. The skin is one of the most important parts of the body, yet its importance is often disregarded. By means of the skin the temperature of the body is maintained. In addition, the skin, like the kidney and the bowel, serves as an organ to carry away waste.

When the skin comes in contact with the air, beneficial changes occur. The skin is given a chance to function as nature intended.

As a result of modern civilization and our modern clothing, we close and seal the skin. This danger is particularly great in winter when most individuals are afraid of cold. Those who live out of doors and in the open air are less susceptible to colds and infections than those who are confined indoors.

By means of the air bath, the whole body is given an opportunity to come in contact with the air. It permits ventilation of the pores of the skin.

Air baths should be taken in the morning, beginning with short time exposure. Please remember that cold air is like cold water—it is not beneficial when the exposure is sudden and prolonged.

Air baths are usually given indoors, although they are of greatest benefit when done in the open. The baths should be taken in a moderately cool, well ventilated room. It is best that this room be adjacent to a warm dressing-room. The first air bath should be taken with only half the body exposed. As the body becomes accustomed to the cool air, more clothing can be removed.

The bathing process begins gradually, the exposure being short at first and gradually lengthened. This bath should never be given to feeble or elderly individuals, nor to a child who has never been accustomed to cold air.

The air bath may be taken immediately after a cool tub bath. If this is done, it is wise to see that the body has been thoroughly dried. Make sure that there are no drafts or undue exposure to cold.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H.M. Q—I am a young man of twenty-five and wish to gain weight. What should I do? I never seem to gain or lose to any extent.

Euclid, Mystery Man.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In modern times perhaps as a result of the extension of journalistic practice, the public has developed a great desire to know much of the lives, both public and private, of celebrities. But true fame has nothing to do with publicity methods, and one may be one of the famous scientists of history and yet have little or no personal record, of the man himself. Such a name is the immortal Euclid. We know little or nothing of Euclid the man, nor have the most indefatigable researches brought to light more than the most meager information.

We do not know when or where Euclid was born, anything of his "am ' or when he died. We do know that he was a Greek and that about 300 B. C his fame as a mathematician had spread far and wide. Alexandria the magnificent, the center of the culture of the east, was the theater of Euclid's activities. Under the dynasty of the Ptolemies, Alexandria flourished amazingly and became a metropolis great in both commerce and culture. At first Euclid established his school or academy in an inconspicuous part of the city. But he soon made his school so famous that King Ptolemy I, surnamed Soter, the Preserver," provided a special auditorium for Euclid's use. Students from many countries of the east flocked to Alexandria to attend Euclid's school where the only language used was Greek. It is said that schools for instruction in the Greek language were established in Alexandria for the benefit of Egyptians, Arabs, Hindus, Persians, and other non-Hellenic people who wished to study under Euclid and other Greek teachers.

Euclid was a masterly writer of great scientific treatises. These works dealt with geometry, trigonometry, or its ancient equivalent astronomy, music, optics, and not a little known today as algebra. Euclid's greatest work is modestly entitled the "Elements" being a great system of geometry in thirteen parts or books. In many respects, it is the most beautiful and perfect scientific treatise ever written. Very few errors can be found in this monumental work. There were geometers of merit before Euclid, but no such supremely gifted organizer of geometrical knowledge as Euclid. Other works of his go by the names of the Data, the Phenomena, Introduction to Harmony, Section of the Scale, Optics, Catoptics, and the Division of Superficies. It is not certain that all of these works were written by Euclid. For some 1,700 years the Elements remained virtually unchanged and unimproved upon. This work furnished the backbone of all of our elementary text-books in geometry.

Euclid accumulated by vast research, every thing that was known about geometry. This was a vast but scattered body of knowledge. Many parts of it were undeveloped. As a whose geometrical knowledge then laced organization systemization and orderly scientific development. Euclid gave it all these qualities in his great work, the Elements. Although he was the heir of true geometers like Thales and Pythagoras, Euclid has been termed, and rightly so, the father of geometry.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

An Ohio "Valley Forge."

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Fort Winchester, which stood where Defiance now is, was the Valley Forge of the first winter of the war of 1812. It was under the command of General Harrison with General Winchester of the regular army in immediate command. The men being still clothed with the linen uniforms in which they had been recruited, began to suffer severely from the cold when winter clothing failed to reach the fort, and food supplies were low.

The men would go out to shoot game in spite of strict orders against it, because Indians were prowling in the adjacent woods, and several parties from the fort were killed. General Winchester bulletined a statement that supplies were on the way, but they did not come. The soldiers shoes were worn out and if forced to march most of them would have had to do it practically barefooted through the snow.

One soldier, desperate under suffering, tried to desert and was punished by being ridden on a rail through the camp, and another taken in a similar attempt, was given "ten cobs on his bare posterior" with a paddle four inches wide and an inch thick with holes bored through it. A sentinel found asleep on his post was sentenced to be shot, and was facing the firing squad when reprieved by General Harrison.

Sickness rendered many unable to do duty and the hospital service of the station was almost helpless in the absence of sufficient medicines and supplies. Daily funerals tended to still further lower the morale of the command. Finally supplies were reported at the mouth of the Maumee river and a number of boats of light draft were constructed to bring them up to the fort, but twice they were fast frozen in the ice on the way. Finally two of them were brought within a mile of the fort where they grounded and details of men with sleds took off foods and such supplies as were most urgently needed, and conveyed them by the sleds to the fort.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 27—The stage "stooge" is finding a shorter cut to theatrical recognition than the understudy. The origin of the term "stooge" is obscure, but is believed to have come from burlesque. The "stooge" is a sort of dead-panned foil for a comedian.

Patsy Kelly began as a "stooge" for Frank Fay in a vaudeville skit. Three other Fay's "stooges" have become recognized harlequins in various revues. Perhaps the first to give this form of entertainer a break was Phil Baker. In the beginning the "stooge" interrupted Baker from a box.

It developed into a cross-fire patter in which the "stooge" was given the very best of the gags—always in the form of ridicule for Baker. The original Baker "stooge" left him to become a high-salaried gagster in Hollywood. His present "stooge" Mr Muldowney has received many offers.

Ted Healy gave rowdy impetus to the calling by featuring a dozen of them in a vaudeville act. Recently Lou Holtz employed a gloriously hilarious "stooge" with an idiotic grin for his sensational Palace engagement. He remained, after Holtz left, in other acts for several weeks.

Most "stooges," I am told, were picked up on the sidewalks of New York. They were street gamins who danced and clowned for pitched pennies. In the old days on the Bowery they were known as "buskers," and filled ranks of burlesque shows.

There is a clumsy Chaplinesque wistfulness about the "stooge" that rarely fails to catch the audience. He is one of those dead-pan puckish souls upon whom Life is ever playing a prank. The trick of the appeal perhaps is that in real life most of us are "stooges."

* * *

He is a dear old and monumentally tedious gentleman often at New York functions of importance rushing about to bestow quick handshakes and fluttery compliments. To me there is pathos in his efforts to be noticed just a little—perhaps to ripple the waters of life without making a splash. He was at a gathering last night, trying as usual to be merry and indulge brightly-colored acts of grace, but I noticed he slipped away early bearing an expression of disappointment. And it's a commentary on manners of the day that as he departed a gin-swigging lady observed "I hope he misses a couple of steps on his way out."

As legends had it she had many Polynesian lovers and is reputed to have hopped up the pulse of one of the rich playboys of Broadway. But to audience, her sensuous dancing was slale parsnips.

* * *

Rari and members of her brown-skinned entourage—including a toothless beetle-but-eating old crone who had been her nurse—occupied a flat over a drug store on Sixth avenue near the theater where she played. I saw her softly silhouetted at her window one evening after her dismissal, her chin cupped in hand and looking upon the line of motor cars edging up to the brilliantly-lit marquee of the theater where she expected to triumph. I could not but wonder if she were dreaming of moon-kissed Tahitian nights and its lazy charm in contrast to the quick motor jungle of the strange new civilization she gazed upon.

* * *

This is not a first flop of real native dancers from outer rims of the world. On the other hand, the shimmying Doraldina—reported born in Muncie, Indiana—was a sweeping success as was later-day Gilda Gray who began hop rhythmic rum-bum bumble in Chicago honky tonks.

Irene Franklin Broadway's favorite red head, is in circulation again after four months in Hollywood. She has been dwelling so long among the false fronts and paper mache mansions that every now and then she cops a peek at her husband to see if he goes all the way around or is just a profile.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 27 — Down at the stone-flagged corridors of the state department each morning these days may be seen at different hours two men making their way to the office of Secretary of State Stimson.

One is short, almost chubby. His face is wreathed in a bland smile as he touches his hat in greeting to those he passes. The other is slight, bespectacled and serious.

Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to Washington, and Yung Kwai, charge d'affaires of the Chinese legation, are at the department for their daily conferences on the Manchurian crisis.

* * *

The diplomatic representatives in Washington of Japan and China do not encounter each other on their daily visits to the state department. Ambassador Debuchi, because of his higher rank, goes straight to the secretary. Yung Kwai, of lesser rank, goes first to the head of the division of far eastern affairs.

Both envoys are veterans of their respective countries' diplomatic service.

Yung Kwai is Washington's oldest resident diplomat in point of service. The old Manchu dynasty ruled China when he first came down from Yale to become a translator in the legation. In the absence of the Chinese minister Yung Kwai now presides over the legation.

Debuchi is a career man in Japan's foreign service. He is looked upon in this country as a foremost authority on Japanese affairs. He was attached to the Japanese embassy here early in his career as a secretary.

During the Washington arms conference in the Harding administration he returned with the rank of counselor and acted as press liaison man for the Japanese delegation.

Then his government made him vice minister for foreign affairs in Tokyo.

* * *

In October of 1928 he again returned to Washington, this time to present his credentials to President Coolidge as the mikado's ambassador.

A golf addict of the first water Debuchi has been forced by the flare-up in Manchuria to abandon everything for work at the present. Cables from Tokyo and conferences at the state department occupy most of his time.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Friday, October 27.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clark, of Avondale avenue.

Carl H. Postle was made deputy auditor.

A train of eleven coaches advertising Arkansas arrived in the city.

Marion Council, No. 671, Knights of Columbus took a five-year lease on the north half of the fifth floor of the Huber building, now the Uhler Phillips.

The tenth annual convention of the Rebekah lodges of the Thirty-Ninth district was held at Waldo.

A Real Job.

Candidates Talk

This morning an assembly was held, at which the candidates for president each made short speeches stating their platforms, and the other candidates were introduced.

Campaign managers and candidates have been given the freedom of the air on the school broadcasting system every day from 1 to 1:15 p. m., and are making use of it in vehement campaign speeches which will continue until after election.

Claims by candidates or managers of irregularities or requests for recounting of ballots must be made within seven days after the results of the primary and election, the citizenship class has ruled.

The class has applied to the school boy patrol for officers to handle the voters at the precincts.

The school has been divided into four wards, three with four precincts and one with five precincts. Orders have been issued that there is to be no loitering about the polls, no campaign speeches or literature or solicitation in any way which would tend to influence the voters within a radius of 25 feet from the judges' desk.

List of Candidates

The candidates for the primary were put on the ballots by petition, worded in duplicate of the petitions used in the city elections.

Candidates for offices follow:

President, Karl Bechtle, Betty Clagett, Richard Crow, Hubert Goerlich, Oliver Rowley, Walter Russo; vice president, Harold Callahan, Anna Chappell, Annetta Hall, Eugene Haubert, Jean Miller, Lester Preuninger, James Reardon, Earl Sutton, Jr., Robert Thibaut, Jane Wires; secretary, Mary Jane Brown, Betty Jane Lusch, June Maskill, Jane Myers, Stanley Neal, Mary Roby, Mary Lou Skritt, Mary Ernestine Smith, Martha Jane Sweney, Fred Warner; treasurer, Lauretta Bevis, Dorothy DeWees, Donna Gelbaugh, Jean Metz, Donna McElroy, Virginia Preuninger, James Rinesmith, Robert Stout, Elaine Strawser.

Von Suppe's "Light Cavalry" overture will open the Melody Moments program by Eugene Ormandy's orchestra over an NBC network at 8:30 p. m., Wednesday. Oliver Smith, tenor, will offer "You're Still That Old Sweetheart of Mine," and "October."

TO GET SHRUBBERY FOR CITY HOSPITAL

As a result of an offer from the Lawrence nursery on the Hardisty highway east the city will have 300 Japanese barberry bushes to add to the shrubbery at the City hospital and the city parks.

City council at its meeting last night voted to purchase the plants after it had been explained by Safety Director Dr. T. E. Bonnastine that the Lawrence Nursery had offered the 300 plants to the city for $25 providing the city would do the digging and transplanting. It is probable that work of transplanting will be turned over to some of the able bodied men who have been receiving grocery orders from the city.

Water Hardness.

An average degree of hardness of the city water of 11.5 points from Oct. 19, to Oct. 25, was shown in a report submitted to city council by Floyd Browne, city chemist, at the meeting of that body last night. Taken every other day from Oct. 19 to 25, the tests show, 11.8, 11.2, 11.6, 11.0, 11.6, 11.7, 11.7, points of hardness.

Almost 50 per cent of the gold imported by Great Britain last year came from South Africa and more than 25 per cent from Australia.

Theater News And Reviews

SALLY O'NEIL TO BE HERE IN "THE BRAT"

Sally O'Neil, in private life, Mrs. Hoot Gibson, has the leading role in "The Brat," playing at the Marion Wednesday and Thursday. John Ford, who made the famous picture, "Four Sons," directed "The Brat," written from the original stage play by Maude Fulton.

Important in the cast are Alma Bennett, Frank Albertson, William Collier Sr., Virginia Cherrill and June Collyer. Virginia Cherrill was the blind flower girl in Chaplin's "City Lights."

Sally O'Neil was once the mascot of the Notre Dame football team, an experience of which she is extremely proud.

The story opens when New York's night scene is swanky Long Island society. Classical photographic effects were gained, with the camera "shooting" upward from the floor, down from the ceiling of a tall room and sliding back and forth on a pulley. Director Ford believes that by the use of these unusual shots, a great similarity is brought between the audience and the film which helps establish the spectators' interest in the picture.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Oct. 26

THE aforest operations holding critical sway over mundane matters on this day are to be read as adverse, with many annoying, disturbing and precarious angles to the fortunes and peace of mind. There is danger of an unprofitable handling of finances, possibly through rash speculation as well as other unwise use of funds in losing or hazardous investments. Likewise there may be open as well as furtive and sinister opposition or hostility, provoked probably by a personal tendency to contentions and violent reactions to trying affairs. Be calm.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of adverse conditions, with finances in peril through speculation, loans or rash investments. Also a personal indulgence in quarrels, impulsive and violent conduct may inspire or provoke subtle enmity as well as open opposition. Elderly persons may have some surprising and friendly adventures. A child born on this day may be rash, impulsive, intemperate in conduct and speech yet may enjoy a degree of popularity.

Woman's Club Continues Study of World Problems

A meeting of the Woman's club yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Ward Bones of east Church street, was a continuation of the study of basic realities in the world society. The first several weeks of the club study gives a foundation upon which to enter the wide study of international relations later. Mrs Frank M Knapp addressed the club on the one-mill levy for poor relief.

Preceding the papers yesterday afternoon, Mrs W S Harder gave her report of the General Federation convention in Phoenix, Ariz. in June.

Six papers were read as follows: Mrs W L Warner "Why Slogans Prevent Thought Reading." Mrs. Charles Allen, "Political Myths." Mrs C. C. Pettis, "The Monarchical Myth." Miss Jeanette Fite, "Democratic Myth." Mrs Chester Roberts, "The Making of the International Mind." Mrs George E Scofield, "The Charge of American Provincialism."

The club will begin a study of historical background at a meeting Nov 2 with Miss Fite.

TIRED—TOO TIRED EVEN TO SLEEP!
Acidity Victims!

Is there anything worse than to go to bed night after night so tired you can't go to sleep? You blame it on hard work. Yet when you stop to think, you realize you have been too tired even to work hard. It must be something other than work that makes you feel so tired, so listless, so apathetic—and usually it is something else! More often than not, an insidious condition of ACIDITY!

The true way to correct acidity and its related putrefaction is by introducing oxygen into the stomach. Oxygen, as medical science knows, is a marvelous antacid and internal antiseptic. And now it is possible to introduce oxygen into the stomach by means of an ancient, harmless white tablet, called Magnesia Oxoids. Developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house, Magnesia Oxoids stand as one of the great medical discoveries of all time! Upon contact with the stomach acids these tablets liberate nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen checks excess acid, counteracts and purifies the whole intestinal tract. All the distress and misery vanishes and a new sense of vigor and well being is restored.

5 Day Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this 5-day acidity test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal for 5 days. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If 5 days use of Magnesia Oxoids doesn't make you feel decidedly better return the balance of the bottle and the druggist will promptly and cheerfully refund your money.—Adv

Eisteddfod Winner Is Guest Soloist for Program Here

MRS D E WINTERROWD of Findlay, contralto and winner of first honors in solo work in the eisteddfod at Lima last spring was presented as a guest soloist when the Lecture Recital club opened the season for the members last night in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. Her accompaniments were played by Mrs Fred Moran also of Findlay.

Mrs Winterrowd has a voice of delightful range and quality and her numbers, which were presented in two groups were interpreted with a charm which made her a favorite with her audience from her opening number throughout the program.

The well balanced program included a piano duet by Miss Mayo Evangeline Lawrence and Miss Mary Helninger, a group of readings by Mrs Merle Hamilton and a piano number by Miss Pauline Zachman.

The program was preceded by a brief talk by Mrs. John Lacey, president of the club, in which she welcomed the new associate members of the organization. She announced that no more membership tickets would be sold this season and also that no more single admission tickets would be available for programs. Other announcements included the presentation of T H Webber Jr., of New Castle, Pa. Nov 5 at the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Community Organ club and the tryouts for the Junior club Wednesday night in one of the show rooms at the Paddock Transfer Co. of fices. Miss Virginia Fowler is counsel for the junior club.

Mendelssohn's "Concerto in D Minor," first movement, was played by Miss Lawrence and Miss Helninger as the opening number of the program. Mrs Winterrowd chose for her first group 'Life' by Curran and 'Ah' Not a Drop' and 'The Worldly Hope,' from Lehman's song cycle, "Persian Garden."

Three readings in Italian dialect were given by Mrs Merle Hamilton, a talented reader. She gave 'Da Thies' and 'Da Besta Fraud' by T. A. Daly and "Brudda Sylves" by Williams. She responded to an encore with 'Just a Thought."

Preceding Mrs Winterrowd's closing group Miss Zachman played 'Concert Waltz' by Friml. Miss Zachman, who enrolled as a member of the club last year was heard for the first time last night by club patrons and proved herself an able and accompanied pianist.

'My Heart Is Weary' by Thomas and 'The Last Song' by Rogers were sung by the guest singer for her concluding numbers. She responded to encores following each of her groups, singing "A Message" by Oley Speaks, and "I Look into Your Garden," by Wood.

Win Awards.

Edward Leedom and Edwin Cook won the costume awards at a Hallowe'en masquerade party given by the teacher, Mrs J E Eggleston last night at her home at 401 Oak Grove avenue. Contests were held, awards going to Mary Ruth Music and Franklin Spitzer. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mary Jane Cook and Esther Marie Eggleston.

Cooking School Note
In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of the Star recently Miss Kara V. Ferguson stressed modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

He rode 10 miles and crossed a river to get Lemon Pie like this

I CALL this "Matty's Lemon Pie" because a man from Missouri told me it was as good as that made by an old colored cook named Matty—and he once rode 10 miles on horseback and rowed a mile across the Missouri River just to eat her lemon pie.

"Matty's Pie" is just sweet enough—with an overtone of fresh, piquant fruit, crowned with a pert meringue, browned to a golden glow and served in a Crisco pastry shell, as crisp on the bottom as it is around the edge—as only Crisco pastry can be.

MATTY'S LEMON PIE

1 lemon, juice and grated rind	1 cup granulated sugar
1 orange, juice and pulp	½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten light	2 tablespoons Crisco
3 tablespoons cornstarch	1½ cups water

Beat egg yolks light and stir in mixed dry ingredients. Add liquids, lemon rind and Crisco. Cook in double boiler until thick. Cool. Pour into baked shell. Cover with meringue (two egg whites beaten stiff blended with 4 tablespoons granulated sugar and 1 teaspoon lemon juice). Brown in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes.

FLAKIER PIE-CRUST
(and a short cut)

If you haven't made pie-crust with Crisco, you've yet to discover how really tender and flaky pie-crust can be! Sweet-tasting, too, because Crisco tastes sweet and pure all by itself—and comes to you fresh in an air-tight can.

To save time in pie baking you can keep this pastry dough already mixed, in the ice-box and bake a crust just when you need it. It will stay sweet, because Crisco itself stays sweet. And the thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

2 cups flour	¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup Crisco	6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour and salt together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives until consistency of small peas. Add only enough water to hold mixture together. Roll ⅓ inch thick on floured board.

For baked shell, use half of recipe and cover inverted pie plate with pastry. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes.

For two-crust pie, bake 10 minutes at 450° F., then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.), bake until filling is done.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.

do this afternoon, sit in the Tuileries ely day."

Mrs. Muir signed.

"My head is all stopped up," she complained fretfully. "I don't think I'll go out."

Venice glanced back at her with genuine sympathy. Her mother's nose was really unduly red.

"But the sunshine might do your cold good," she suggested.

Mrs. Muir pressed a hand to her forehead.

"You don't realize how miserable I am, Venice."

"Yes, I do. But a heavy cold is just a heavy cold. Come on, Mother."

"It would be most imprudent. I can just tell you one thing, Venice Muir, if I die over here you can bury me some place around Paris. I don't want those rough sailors pushing my coffin about on shipboard."

Venice tried not to smile.

"Oh, don't talk that way, Mother."

Mrs. Muir put on a quick, bright smile to show how brave she was.

"Well, I won't then. But I mean it. An ocean trip is bad enough when you know what it's all about, but it must be much worse when you're dead."

Venice laughed outright here.

"You are a ghoul, Mother!"

"I'm not. When you reach my age you'll look ahead too. And I don't want you to mope or miss parties ever for me. I don't approve of it for young people. Remember that. Go on out, my dear. I'll write letters and take aspirin."

"Are you sure you don't mind my leaving you? I'm dying to mooch about the left bank and you never want to do it with me."

"I certainly don't. Paris is dirty enough on the right bank. Run along and don't go into any obscure streets. Remember you look like a rich American."

"How humiliating."

Venice hurried into her hat and coat and 10 minutes later was walking through the Place Vendome, up to the Rue de Rivoli and on across the Seine. She found a narrow winding street and followed it. Wine shops, antique shops, book shops. She lingered so long staring through dingy windows that dusk suddenly told her the hour was growing late. She was completely lost and had to inquire her way back every few streets.

"Pardon, madame, ou est le Quai d'Orsay? Pardon, m'sieur, ou est le Quai d'Orsay?" and so on.

Headed in the right direction she became lost in impressionistic details which painted themselves sharply on the sensitive retina of her appreciation. The soft pastels of dying daylight in the darkening sky, here a square of light in a high window like an orange block in the mauve dusk; there a mass of yellow roses in a shabby vender's arms. Crossing the Pont Royal she lingered a moment staring down into the purple ribbon of the Seine, sluggish and sheenless, its dullness broken here and there by the point of a reflected light.

Back at the hotel Venice found her mother sniffing and coughing and crying miserably.

"Where have you been, Venice? I've been horribly worried."

"I'm sorry, Mother. It's only twenty minutes of seven. How's your cold?"

"Wretched. And my chest hurts. Where have you been?"

"To the Quai d'Orsay and through back streets somewhere out towards the Boulevard St. Germain."

"Oh, my head. My head's splitting."

Venice regarded her mother soberly. Was she really ill or was this one of her perpetual exaggerations? Like the boy crying wolf, she thought, you can't tell.

"Let's call a doctor. Don't you remember that Dr. Hawks you had once before from the American hospital?"

"Yes, let's. I think I'd better have him."

They ate dinner in Mrs. Muir's room. Dr. Hawks arrived as they finished their crepes Suzette.

"A heavy cold," he pronounced. "Stay in bed several days, Mrs. Muir."

"Are you coming to see me again?" she inquired anxiously.

"I hardly think it's necessary. Not unless you telephone me that you're worse."

He was a nice young man, lean and aquiline. One of those Americans who has lived in France so long that he talks like an Englishman. It is an inexplicable development but it often occurs.

After he had gone and her mother was comfortably in bed Venice went downstairs to the lounge. She felt unaccountably depressed. The afternoon had been so lovely and somehow it had all dispelled itself in terms of aspirin and hot water bottles and fretful reproaches. The room was empty except for a girl about her own age who bent over a center table examining a map of Paris. Venice watched her. She was comparatively well-dressed with a pale face devoid of any make-up. Suddenly she looked up and Venice was startled by the side of her earnest blue-grey eyes. The girl took her in and smiled.

"Do you know where the Rue de Grenelle is?" she asked.

Venice felt unexpectedly pleased. She moved to the center table and leaned over the outspread map.

"It's on the left bank, I think. Let's see."

Their index fingers traced various streets and boulevards.

"Here," cried Venice, "here it is."

"Of course, and I've been hunting for 10 minutes. Some friends have asked me to meet them there at a place called La Petite Chaise tomorrow and I couldn't imagine where it was. Thank you so much."

Venice straightened and felt awkward as to the next conversational move.

"Sit down, won't you, and talk to me," suggested the girl.

"Yes," said Venice and suddenly realized that this was a new person and she was being her customary diffident self. She gave an exact imitation of her mother's most winning smile.

They made themselves comfortable at adjacent sides of the table.

"I'm over here alone, are you?"

"No, with my mother."

"I broke loose from mine. My family is party mad. I hate parties."

Venice forgot to be anything but natural.

"So do I," she cried. "Why do you?"

To Be Continued.

Sweetbreads Often are Just Right for Light Meat Dish

When a light meat dish is desired sweetbreads may fill the bill excellently. It is a wholesome food, so easy of digestion that it suits many who have to avoid other meats.

What are sweetbreads? Very often they are confused with brains or other odd parts of meat. There are, as a matter of fact, several kinds of sweetbreads—the thymus, thyroid and pancreas. They are all nutritious and digestible, but they vary in texture. The most delicate is the thymus, which is the gland near the heart; the less delicate is the thyroid, which is near the throat, and the pancreas or stomach gland. All are prepared the same way.

How To Serve

Sweetbreads are usually ordered in advance, for they spoil easily and cannot be held over if unsold. They should be absolutely fresh and bought only for use the same day.

Soak the sweetbreads in cold water for about an hour. Drain, place in a saucepan of water to which salt and vinegar have been added. Allow 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt for each quart of water. Simmer 20 minutes, then drain and throw into cold water. Any bits of membrane can then be lifted and removed easily.

After this preliminary cooking sweetbreads can be prepared in a variety of ways. They can be cut in small sections, dipped in flour or breadcrumbs and sauted in butter. Or brushed with melted butter and broiled. Or placed in a baking dish, covered with white sauce and bread crumbs and baked half an hour in a moderate oven.

A rather exotic flavor is imparted to sweetbreads if they are placed in a buttered baking dish, covered with sherry, and when tender served with baked bananas.

Or, for a pleasant luncheon dish, cut the parboiled sweetbreads in large dice, add to sauted mushrooms, and some thick sweet cream, heat through and pour on toast points.

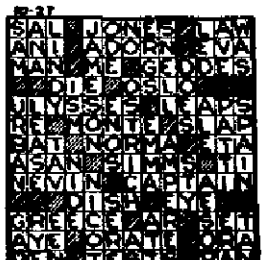
Herewith is the solution to yesterday's puzzle:



"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Dicky's Searing Analysis Prompts Madge To Tell All.

DICKY laughed as I said that I knew I should hate to be put upon a pedestal by anybody. Then he put his hand under my chin and looked down into my eyes, a quizzical but steady stare.

"Sure of that?" he asked.

I put up my hands and patted his cheek.

"Absolutely sure," I answered. "I can't imagine anything more deadly than that too-good-for-this-world sort of thing. In the first place, no human being, unless a hypocrite and a consummate actress could keep any man convinced that she belonged on a pedestal, and, even if she could manage that difficult task, what would be the object! No, thank you!—I don't care for a pedestal or standing upon it. I should be entirely too lonesome and—bored."

Dicky chuckled, then his arm tightened around me.

"You remember what Aunt Polly told Tom Sawyer, 'Maybe it's a lie, but if it is, it's a good lie, and I bless you for it,' or words to that effect. So it even, like Tom, it's your kind heart that made you say it; I'm grateful and happy just the same."

Madge Weathers a Shock

"Dicky, Dicky!" I shook him with a playfulness that held exasperation. "I'm speaking only the truth."

"And deluding yourself into the idea that it's the whole truth and nothing but the truth," he retorted laughingly.

But there was something in the laughter that made me lift my head and look him squarely in the eyes.

"Why won't you believe me?" I asked.

"Do you really want to know?" he replied, suddenly serious.

"Yes, I do," I said sturdily.

"Then," he said slowly, "I fancy I'll have to tell you something you perhaps don't know yourself, and that is that you've been so near falling for Hugh Grantland upon divers occasions that it isn't a bit funny."

I wondered if my face was mirroring the absolute panic which had seized me. How had he guessed the secret thought which I never had allowed myself to face squarely and which I had pushed back into the deepest recesses of my heart upon the two or three occasions when Dicky's apparent neglect of me and attention to some other woman had thrown Hugh Grantland's kingly devotion into relief?

Only Lillian Had Known

My conscience acquitted me of any disloyalty to Dicky, for the feeling which Hugh Grantland had aroused in me had been a nebulous thing, a speculation upon a possibility, instead of any definite consideration of a probability. But I could not hide from myself the fact that Hugh Grantland held a peculiar and unusual place in my life. I remembered the old quip that women at sight instinctively divide men into two classes, one containing those they could tolerate upon a desert island and those of whom it would be impossible to think in such proximity. Hugh Grantland was distinctly of the first type. Any woman would feel safe with him anywhere, and I could think of none who would not enjoy his companionship.

But upon that foundation of basic worth, Hugh Grantland had built an edifice of devotion and self-sacrifice such as few women receive. It would have taken a colder, more emotional nature than mine, not be to swayed by it. But I had thought all this was locked in my own heart. I had been so careful never to betray by word or glance the interest I felt in my staunch friend that I was sure no one in all the world, knew of my secret wavering.

All, that is, save Lillian. Her perceptions are so keen, so almost clairvoyant, where anyone she loves is concerned, that I had not been surprised when she told me that Hugh Grantland was the only man Dicky would have to fear.

"I don't mean that you're gaga about the lad," she had said one day, "or that there will ever be any coffee and pistols for two staged before the breakfast hour, but if Dicky should ever take a notion to beat you up on some Saturday night, whether you needed it or not, or to fly to Reno with some other dame, I'd be inclined to lay odds upon Hugh's ability to do the heavy consolidation act.

"You're not at all in love with him now," she had gone on, "and you probably never will be, for I'm counting on the Dicky-bird not hopping very far from the cage door. But if you ever do forget Dicky for any other man, that man's name will be Hugh Grantland."

And now I faced the knowledge that Dicky himself had seen as deeply into my heart as had Lillian and had brought from it the knowledge which he was now voicing.

What should I say to him?

Unless to deny indignantly what he had said, yet equally foolish by silence to permit him to exaggerate the value of his words. With a sudden resolution, I slipped from his arms and standing erect, faced him.

"Do you want me to tell you the truth?" I asked.

Here's a test to make on the milk delivered to your home.

Let it stand for a while....Then wipe off the bottom with a clean damp cloth and lift it up gently so that you can see through the bottom of the bottle.

What is disclosed there may be a more potent argument for clean, pure milk than all the words of advice we could give.

What does the bottom of the bottle reveal?

How essential is cleanliness in the equipment and care of milk! You must read every word about baby's milk, or other precautions are taken to make it safe, clean and pure. Every drop of baby's milk must be purged of the danger in dirt—...cleaned and protected after you know it is bottled.

Baby's milk is sacred, a product of scrupulous cleanliness but it is ... [illegible] ... handled in ... [illegible] ... milk.
